TRAFFIC CRASH VICTIM DIES

M. F. BUCHMAN FATALLY HURT AS TWO TRUCKS WRECK HIS CAR

East Liverpool Machinist Thrown to Street in Lisbon.

SKULL FRACTURED

Succumbs in Salem Hospital—Leaves Widow and One Child.

Miles F. Buchman, 26, machinist, of Gardendale avenue, died in the Salem City hospital, at 6:30 o'clock last evening, as the result of a fractured skull sustained when he was thrown to the street after his automobile was wrecked by two trucks in a collision on the Market street hill in Lisbon.

Foundry Worker.

His body which was removed to the Stark morgue in Salem, will be brought to the home of his brother-in-law, Fred W. Neiser, 932 McKinnon avenue, Saturday, where funeral services will be conducted Monday.

Buchman, who had been working at the Patterson Foundry and Machine company plant, was on his way to Salem yesterday morning on a business trip. Going up the Market street hill, Lisbon, in the direction of Salem, he started to pass a truck owned by the Bell Telephone company, driven by Bert Clark of Minerva street, East Liverpool. His car was struck by a large truck owned by the J. W. Kinney Transfer Company, of Pittsburgh, which was on its way to Lisbon with a load of groceries, and knocked against the telephone company's machine. Buchman was thrown to the street, alighting on his head.

The injured man was taken to the office of Dr. H. S. Maxwell, Lisbon and then removed to the Salem hospital. He did regain consciousness. His wife, nee, Esther Harrison, reached his bedside before he died.

Buchman came to East Liverpool from Akron about a year ago. In addition to his wife, he is survived by one son, David, aged two years. His parents and several brothers and sisters, all of whom reside in Akron, also survive.

GIRL'S SLAYER ELECTROCUTED

Akron Man Pays Death Penalty for Killing His Cousin.

COLUMBUS, Dec. 12.—Paying the penalty for the murder of his 13-year-old cousin, Elizabeth Nagy, Alexander Kuszik, 21, of Akron was led into the death chamber at Ohio penitentiary at one o'clock this morning, and electrocuted six minutes later.

According to Prison Chaplain Reed, the young prisoner believed from the time he was confined in death row that he would not receive executive clemency and was prepared to die. For an hour before he started the march to the death chamber, Kuszik wrote letters to his relatives, asking their forgiveness.

An eleventh hour plea for executive clemency by Kuszik's counsel was put before Gov. Donahey late yesterday. Testimony of two alienists who did not testify at Kuszik's trial was introduced to show him mentally irresponsible, but this was contradicted by the state's alienists who said they found Kuszik normal.

Epileptic Drowns His Head is Wedged In Bucket of Water

CINCINNATI, Dec. 12. — Joseph Holmes, 50, was seized with an epileptic fit at his home last night. He fell to the floor, his head became wedged in a wooden bucket filled with water and he was drowned.

Burton Roberts, 20, Lockland, while working at the Fox Paper company's plant, fell into a pit ten feet deep but containing only two feet of water and was drowned.

TEACHER AIDS WELLING FUND CAMPAIGN HERE

Miss Rubiena Ikirt Sends Check for Needy Family.

PLEDGES SUPPORT

Two Other Contributions for Two Widows and Four Children.

Three contributions, one of which was a check from a high school teacher's Christmas savings account, were received by the Review-Tribune today as additions to the relief fund being raised to liquidate a $600 mortgage on the little home of Mrs. Matilda Welling, a widow, of 1731 Globe street, East End.

Due to the fact that the campaign is just getting under way, the amount subscribed so far is small. However, it is expected to increase with leaps and bounds during the coming week.

The money is for the benefit of a widowed grandmother, Mrs. Harriett Lemley, as well as the widowed mother and her four fatherless children.

It was announced today that a supply of groceries and a ton of coal were delivered at the Welling home yesterday.

Teacher's Letter.

Enclosing a check for $5 as her contribution, Miss Rubiena Ikirt, teacher of Senior English in the high school, pledged her support of the relief movement in the following letter to the Review-Tribune today:

Kid McCoy Prevents Fellow Jail Inmate From Hanging Self

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Dec. 12.—Kid McCoy wrote another dramatic chapter in his eventful career here today when he saved a man's life, preventing a fellow prisoner from hanging himself.

Awakened by the death gasps of George Waterman, who had hung himself from his cell bars by a pair of suspenders, McCoy rushed to the man's side and cut him down.

Jailers revived Waterman and he will recover, although he was at the point of death by strangulation when McCoy rescued him.

Mexican Telegrams Carrying News of Death Attributed to Poor Facilities for Communication.

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Dec. 12.—Samuel Gompers, stricken head of the American Federation of Labor, is back on the soil of his adopted country, speeding to this city this morning. His condition is much improved, according to a bulletin issued by attending physicians during the wait at Laredo.

Gompers was not removed from his car while it was being transferred from the Mexican line to the International Great Northern railroad. The train left Laredo at 9:30 o'clock and is due to arrive at San Antonio at 3:45 p. m.

DEATH MESSAGE SOURCE SOUGHT

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 12—An investigation of the origin of the erroneous telegram sent to him yesterday stating that Samuel Gompers had died at San Nicolas, Mexico was instituted here today by General Gomez, to whom the message was addressed. General Gomez gave the message to the press without doubting the accuracy of the information.

That Gompers' condition does not warrant his being placed in a hospital on his arrival here is indicated by the fact that no hospital reservations have been made. Instead a suite of rooms at the St. Anthony hotel has been reserved.

A consultation of physicians will be called in Gompers' room upon his arrival at the hotel, it was announced before the train left Laredo.

Consulting Physician's Bulletin.

Gompers will probably remain in San Antonio several days, members of his party told newspapermen on the train enroute to San Antonio.

Dr. Cockrell, chief consulting physician, issued a statement at Laredo at 9:30 o'clock, saying that the patient's respiration, pulse and temperature were normal.

The aged labor leader suffered a fainting spell Wednesday night in Mexico City, his heart action became very weak and his condition extremely critical, according to Frank Morrison, secretary of the American Federation of Labor, and other delegates

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 12.—Palpably nervous for the first time since his trial began and looking worn and dejected, Kid McCoy jerked his body back and forth in his chair as the fifth day of his trial for the murder of Mrs. Telesa Mors opened today.

With the case moving with record-breaking activity, it appeared today McCoy would take the stand in his own defense early next week. He seemed extremely sensitive as that ordal approached.

Prosecuting attorneys announced they would complete the state's case Saturday.

Business Adviser Witness.

Relating the story of the slaying of Mrs. Mors, the state today had reached the events which followed discovery of Mrs. Mors' body in her apartment with a bullet in the head and was ready to introduce witnesses to tell the nine women and three men jurors of the defendant's actions when it is alleged he "ran amuck" in the slain woman's antique store.

BUILDING IS TORN INTO BITS; POSSE PURSUES NEGRO SUSPECT

Police Charge That Fugitive Had Announced, Following Separation From Wife, His Intention to Wreck Dwelling — Three Women and One Man, all Young, are Victims.

BARTOW, Fla., Dec. 12.—Three women and one man, all colored and young, were blown to atoms in a house in East Bartow early today, when a charge of dynamite, alleged to have been planted by "Doc" Taylor, husband of Julia Taylor, one of the occupants of the house, exploded with a violence that tore the building into bits and rocked the whole town.

Taylor escaped and a posse pursued him today.

The dead are:

Julia Taylor, Jennie Hall, Idella Miller and Solomon Griffin.

A man by the name of Bosco escaped injury.

Taylor, it was said, announced his intention to dynamite the house. He and his wife had quarreled and separated. The planting of the explosive was the result of jealousy, officers said.

26 ARRESTS ARE MADE IN NILES RIOT CASE; SERVING OTHER WARRANTS

Real Estate Operator is Among Accused — Reports of Warrant for Missing Youngstown Klan Leader.

NILES, O., Dec. 12.—Sheriff John E. Thomas and his deputies continued today to serve warrants upon the 104 persons indicted by a special grand jury in connection with the rioting at Niles November 1, in which Klan and anti-Klan factions were involved.

Thus far 26 arrests have been made, most of them residents of Niles, on charges ranging from rioting to shooting with intent to kill and carrying concealed weapons.

Among those arrested today was Harry A. Walsh, one of the leading real estate operators of Niles.

Belief is growing that Sheriff Thomas holds a warrant for the arrest of Col. Evan A. Watkins, Youngstown's "mystery man" and Klan leader, who mysteriously disappeared last week. Thomas would neither deny nor affairm that he had a warrant for Watkin's arrest.

Probate Judge Joseph Smith declared today he saw Watkins pass through Warren late yesterday in a closed automobile. Judge Smith was positive in his identification and the news was rushed to Sheriff Thomas here.

AUTO OCCUPANTS BANDIT VICTIMS

CHICAGO, Dec. 12.—Bandits, believed to have trailed them from the Friars' inn, a loop cabaret, today forced an automobile occupied by Mrs. Katherine Armstrong, wealthy widow, and Harry Ziv, to the curb, robbed them or jewelry valued at $35,000 and escaped.

Two other $100 bonds are available. Bonds of this denomination will be framed for purchasers.

The two-thirds mark in the campaign has not been reached, workers said.

Reports from the sale of health seals in the public and parochial schools are expected to be submitted today. No reports have been made by lodges other than the Elks.

School teachers as well as pupils are co-operating in the campaign for better health, Mrs. Steinfeld said.

The official ballot, containing the names of the nominating committee candidates, is being sent out to the membership from the chamber headquarters today. Five names have been submitted for this place: Ross Tisher, W. O. Bloor, R. T. Couch, W. B. Louthan and Howard Moninger. While five members are to be elected, the membership is entitled to enter names upon the ballot if they do not approve the nominees.

Ballots must be returned to headquarters not later than Saturday, December 20, in order to be tabulated.

WILL SANTA OVERLOOK WELLSVILLE HOME IN WHICH DEATH OCCURRED THIS WEEK AND 11 ARE ILL?

Ol' Santa Claus will be the busiest person on earth on the early morning hours of Thursday, December 25.

That'll be Christmas day, though there's not much need to remind you.

How many little hearts now are beating in exultant expectation of this jovial old fellow's visit! How many sparkling, joyful little eyes, opened many hours before wake-up time on this day, will grow round in astonishment as they find 'neath their Chistmas trees unmistakable evidences of their unannounced, nocturnal guest.

Over there a sled for Billy, a doll for Susan, skates, wagons, doll houses, toys in abundance. And, sure enough, Ma and Pa have been remembered.

Mother and dad are happy, their joy reaching depths unfathomed in the hearts of any but those who are blessed with these priceless treasures of creation—their children, their babies. They are happy because of the valued gift of health, and their ability to provide food for the little mouths, clothing for the helpless little bodies and those little luxuries, the playthings, that are attributed to the benevolent hand of a Santa Claus.

But Santa is so busy—he can't help but miss someone, and it may be some diminutive, toddling, innocent eyed little baby—one that chuckles, laughs, or sobs, climbs into its daddy's arms for the touch of loving hands, or, frightened, seeks the ever cherishing, all protecting arms, of a devoted mother—one just like that baby of your own, perhaps not so fortunate.

There is a home—George and Edith Howell are the father and mother who made the home. It is located in Washington avenue, between Fifth and Sixth streets, Wellsville, away from the beaten paths of business and pleasure. In fact, it is entirely possible that it may be out of the path of Santa Claus, altogether.

Nine children, ranging in ages from one year to 10 years, may, or may not, be awaiting the arrival of a Santa Claus. There are several of them who do not know. The older ones of the flock perhaps dare not even hope.

Death took away a brother only this week.

The ruthless hand of disease—typhoid fever—sparing none, recently swept the entire family.

There is a brother, Donald, who is 18 years old, in the East Liverpool hospital, on his way to recovery after more than a two months' battle.

Year-old twins, never really strong, probably will be spared.

The father, a carpenter by trade, still suffering from the effects of fever, is practically an invalid and unable to work. The mother, who also was bedfast, is trying to "carry on."

There may be no Santa Claus for this family.

And there'll probably be no well filled stockings for "Bob" and Alberta, year-old youngsters, who arrived simultaneously; Phyllis and Philip, 6 years old, also twins; Alta, 11; Dorothy, 13; Enid, 15; Donald, 18, and Mary, 19.

Red Cross Aids.

The Wellsville Red Cross, through the efforts of Miss Helen Keenan, temporarily filling the post of Mrs. Helen Dougherty,

WILL SANTA OVERLOOK WELLSVILLE HOME IN WHICH DEATH OCCURRED THIS WEEK AND 11 ARE ILL?

Ol' Santa Claus will be the busiest person on earth on the early morning hours of Thursday, December 25.

That'll be Christmas day, though there's not much need to remind you.

How many little hearts now are beating in exultant expectation of this jovial old fellow's visit! How many sparkling, joyful little eyes, opened many hours before wake-up time on this day, will grow round in astonishment as they find 'neath their Chistmas trees unmistakable evidences of their unannounced, nocturnal guest.

Over there a sled for Billy, a doll for Susan, skates, wagons, doll houses, toys in abundance. And, sure enough, Ma and Pa have been remembered.

Mother and dad are happy, their joy reaching depths unfathomed in the hearts of any but those who are blessed with these priceless treasures of creation—their children, their babies. They are happy because of the valued gift of health, and their ability to provide food for the little mouths, clothing for the helpless little bodies and those little luxuries, the playthings, that are attributed to the benevolent hand of a Santa Claus.

But Santa is so busy—he can't help but miss someone, and it may be some diminutive, toddling, innocent eyed little baby—one that chuckles, laughs, or sobs, climbs into its daddy's arms for the touch of loving hands, or, frightened, seeks the ever cherishing, all protecting arms, of a devoted mother—one just like that baby of your own, perhaps not so fortunate.

There is a home—George and Edith Howell are the father and mother who made the home. It is located in Washington avenue, between Fifth and Sixth streets, Wellsville, away from the beaten paths of business and pleasure. In fact, it is entirely possible that it may be out of the path of Santa Claus, altogether.

Nine children, ranging in ages from one year to 10 years, may, or may not, be awaiting the arrival of a Santa Claus. There are several of them who do not know. The older ones of the flock perhaps dare not even hope.

Death took away a brother only this week.

The ruthless hand of disease—typhoid fever—sparing none, recently swept the entire family.

There is a brother, Donald, who is 18 years old, in the East Liverpool hospital, on his way to recovery after more than a two months' battle.

Year-old twins, never really strong, probably will be spared.

The father, a carpenter by trade, still suffering from the effects of fever, is practically an invalid and unable to work. The mother, who also was bedfast, is trying to "carry on."

There may be no Santa Claus for this family.

And there'll probably be no well filled stockings for "Bob" and Alberta, year-old youngsters, who arrived simultaneously; Phyllis and Philip, 6 years old, also twins; Alta, 11; Dorothy, 13; Enid, 15; Donald, 18, and Mary, 19.

TRAFFIC CRASH VICTIM DIES

M. F. BUCHMAN FATALLY HURT AS TWO TRUCKS WRECK HIS CAR

East Liverpool Machinist Thrown to Street in Lisbon.

SKULL FRACTURED

Succumbs in Salem Hospital—Leaves Widow and One Child.

Miles F. Buchman, 26, machinist, of Gardendale avenue, died in the Salem City hospital, at 6:30 o'clock last evening, as the result of a fractured skull sustained when he was thrown to the street after his automobile was wrecked by two trucks in a collision on the Market street hill in Lisbon.

Foundry Worker.

His body which was removed to the Stark morgue in Salem, will be brought to the home of his brother-in-law, Fred W. Neiser, 932 McKinnon avenue, Saturday, where funeral services will be conducted Monday.

Buchman, who had been working at the Patterson Foundry and Machine company plant, was on his way to Salem yesterday morning on a business trip. Going up the Market street hill, Lisbon, in the direction of Salem, he started to pass a truck owned by the Ohio Bell Telephone company, driven by Bert Clark of Minerva street, East Liverpool. His car was struck by a large truck owned by the J. W. Kinney Transfer Company, of Pittsburgh, which was on its way to Lisbon with a load of groceries, and knocked against the telephone company's machine. Buchman was thrown to the street, alighting on his head.

The injured man was taken to the office of Dr. H. S. Maxwell, Lisbon and then removed to the Salem hospital. He did regain consciousness. His wife, nee, Esther Harrison, reached his bedside before he died.

Buchman came to East Liverpool from Akron about a year ago. In addition to his wife, he is survived by one son, David, aged two years. His parents and several brothers and sisters, all of whom reside in Akron, also survive.

GIRL'S SLAYER ELECTROCUTED

Akron Man Pays Death Penalty for Killing His Cousin.

COLUMBUS, Dec. 12.—Paying the penalty for the murder of his 13-year-old cousin, Elizabeth Nagy, Alexander Kuszik, 21, of Akron was led into the death chamber at Ohio penitentiary at one o'clock this morning, and electrocuted six minutes later.

According to Prison Chaplain Reed, the young prisoner believed from the time he was confined in death row that he would not receive executive clemency and was prepared to die. For an hour before he started the march to the death chamber, Kuszik wrote letters to his relatives, asking their forgiveness.

An eleventh hour plea for executive clemency by Kuszik's counsel was put before Gov. Donahey late yesterday. Testimony of two alienists who did not testify at Kuszik's trial was introduced to show him mentally irresponsible, but this was contradicted by the state's alienists who said they found Kuszik normal.

Epileptic Drowns His Head is Wedged In Bucket of Water

CINCINNATI, Dec. 12. — Joseph Holmes, 50, was seized with an epileptic fit at his home last night. He fell to the floor, his head became wedged in a wooden bucket filled with water and he was drowned.

Burton Roberts, 20, Lockland, while working at the Fox Paper company's plant, fell into a pit ten feet deep but containing only two feet of water and was drowned.

His elbow was bruised.

TEACHER AIDS WELLING FUND CAMPAIGN HERE

Miss Rubiena Ikirt Sends Check for Needy Family.

PLEDGES SUPPORT

Two Other Contributions for Two Widows and Four Children.

Three contributions, one of which was a check from a high school teacher's Christmas savings account, were received by the Review-Tribune today as additions to the relief fund being raised to liquidate a $600 mortgage on the little home of Mrs. Matilda Welling, a widow, of 1731 Globe street, East End.

Due to the fact that the campaign is just getting under way, the amount subscribed so far is small. However, it is expected to increase with leaps and bounds during the coming week.

The money is for the benefit of a widowed grandmother, Mrs. Harriett Lemley, as well as the widowed mother and her four fatherless children.

It was announced today that a supply of groceries and a ton of coal were delivered at the Welling home yesterday.

Teacher's Letter.

Enclosing a check for $5 as her contribution, Miss Rubiena Ikirt, teacher of Senior English in the high school, pledged her support of the relief movement in the following letter to the Review-Tribune today:

Kid McCoy Prevents Fellow Jail Inmate From Hanging Self

LOS ANGELES Cal., Dec. 12.—Kid McCoy wrote another dramatic chapter in his eventful career here today when he saved a man's life, preventing a fellow prisoner from hanging himself.

Awakened by the death gasps of George Waterman, who had hung himself from his cell bars by a pair of suspenders, McCoy rushed to the man's side and cut him down.

Jailers revived Waterman and he will recover, although he was at the point of death by strangulation when McCoy rescued him.

Mexican Telegrams Carrying News of Death Attributed to Poor Facilities for Communication.

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Dec. 12.—Samuel Gompers, stricken head of the American Federation of Labor, is back on the soil of his adopted country, speeding to this city this morning. His condition is much improved, according to a bulletin issued by attending physicians during the wait at Laredo.

Gompers was not removed from his car while it was being transferred from the Mexican line to the International Great Northern railroad. The train left Laredo at 9:30 o'clock and is due to arrive at San Antonio at 3:45 p. m.

DEATH MESSAGE SOURCE SOUGHT

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 12—An investigation of the origin of the erroneous telegram sent to him yesterday stating that Samuel Gompers had died at San Nicolas, Mexico was instituted here today by General Gomez, to whom the message was addressed. General Gomez gave the message to the press without doubting the accuracy of the information.

That Gompers' condition does not warrant his being placed in a hospital on his arrival here is indicated by the fact that no hospital reservations have been made. Instead a suite of rooms at the St. Anthony hotel has been reserved.

A consultation of physicians will be called in Gompers' room upon his arrival at the hotel, it was announced before the train left Laredo.

Consulting Physician's Bulletin.

Gompers will probably remain in San Antonio several days, members of his party told newspapermen on the train enroute to San Antonio.

Dr. Cockrell, chief consulting physician, issued a statement at Laredo at 9:30 o'clock, saying that the patient's respiration, pulse and temperature were normal.

The aged labor leader suffered a fainting spell Wednesday night in Mexico City, his heart action became very weak and his condition extremely critical, according to Frank Morrison, secretary of the American Federation of Labor, and other delegates

M'COY LOOKS WORN ON FIFTH DAY OF TRIAL

Former Pugilist, Held for Murder of Woman, Nervous.

JEALOUSY BLAMED

Accused Appears to Fear Ordeal of Testifying.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 12.—Palpably nervous for the first time since his trial began and looking worn and dejected, Kid McCoy jerked his body back and forth in his chair as the fifth day of his trial for the murder of Mrs. Telesa Mors opened today.

With the case moving with record-breaking activity, it appeared today McCoy would take the stand in his own defense early next week. He seemed extremely sensitive as that ordal approached.

Prosecuting attorneys announced they would complete the state's case Saturday.

Business Adviser Witness.

Relating the story of the slaying of Mrs. Mors, the state today had reached the events which followed discovery of Mrs. Mors' body in her apartment with a bullet in the head and was ready to introduce witnesses to tell the nine women and three men jurors of the defendant's actions when it is alleged he "ran amuck" in the slain woman's antique store.

CHARGE OF DYNAMITE, PLANTED UNDER HOUSE, ROCKS TOWN IN FLORIDA

Husband of One of Victims, Believed to Have Been Actuated by Jealousy Following Quarrel With Wife, is Alleged to Have Set Off Explosive in Bartow.

BUILDING IS TORN INTO BITS; POSSE PURSUES NEGRO SUSPECT

Police Charge That Fugitive Had Announced, Following Separation From Wife, His Intention to Wreck Dwelling — Three Women and One Man, all Young, are Victims.

BARTOW, Fla., Dec. 12.—Three women and one man, all colored and young, were blown to atoms in a house in East Bartow early today, when a charge of dynamite, alleged to have been planted by "Doc" Taylor, husband of Julia Taylor, one of the occupants of the house, exploded with a violence that tore the building into bits and rocked the whole town.

Taylor escaped and a posse pursued him today.

The dead are:

Julia Taylor, Jennie Hall, Idella Miller and Solomon Griffin.

A man by the name of Bosco escaped injury.

Taylor, it was said, announced his intention to dynamite the house. He and his wife had quarreled and separated. The planting of the explosive was the result of jealousy, officers said.

26 ARRESTS ARE MADE IN NILES RIOT CASE; SERVING OTHER WARRANTS

Real Estate Operator is Among Accused — Reports of Warrant for Missing Youngstown Klan Leader.

NILES, O., Dec. 12.—Sheriff John E. Thomas and his deputies continued today to serve warrants upon the 104 persons indicted by a special grand jury in connection with the rioting at Niles November 1, in which Klan and anti-Klan factions were involved.

Thus far 26 arrests have been made, most of them residents of Niles, on charges ranging from rioting to shooting with intent to kill and carrying concealed weapons.

Among those arrested today was Harry A. Walsh, one of the leading real estate operators of Niles.

Belief is growing that Sheriff Thomas holds a warrant for the arrest of Col. Evan A. Watkins, Youngstown's "mystery man" and Klan leader, who mysteriously disappeared last week. Thomas would neither deny nor affairm that he had a warrant for Watkin's arrest.

Probate Judge Joseph Smith declared today he saw Watkins pass through Warren late yesterday in a closed automobile. Judge Smith was positive in his identification and the news was rushed to Sheriff Thomas here.

AUTO OCCUPANTS BANDIT VICTIMS

CHICAGO, Dec. 12.—Bandits, believed to have trailed them from the Friars' inn, a loop cabaret, today forced an automobile occupied by Mrs. Katherine Armstrong, wealthy widow, and Harry Ziv, to the curb, robbed them or jewelry valued at $35,000 and escaped.

$100 HEALTH BOND IS SOLD

Elks Purchase First in Drive Against Tuberculosis.

The Elks' lodge has purchased the first $100 health bond ever sold in East Liverpool, it was announced today by Mrs. Louis Steinfeld, chairman of the health committee of the City Federation of Women's Clubs, in charge of the campaign to raise $2,206 to carry on the fight against tuberculosis.

Two other $100 bonds are available.

Bonds of this denomination will be framed for purchasers.

The two-thirds mark in the campaign has not been reached, workers said.

Reports from the sale of health seals in the public and parochial schools are expected to be submitted today. No reports have been made by lodges other than the Elks.

School teachers as well as pupils are co-operating in the campaign for better health, Mrs. Steinfeld said.

Five names have been submitted for this place: Ross Tisher, W. O. Bloor, R. T. Couch, W. B. Loughan and Howard Moninger. Ballots must be returned to headquarters not later than Saturday, December 20, in order to be tabulated.

M. C. M'CORMICK AUTO VICTIM

Former Wayne Township Man Killed in Topeka, Kan.

M. C. McCormick, 64 years old, a former resident of Wayne township, but who has resided at Topeka, Kan., for approximately 45 years, was killed a few days ago when he was run down by an automobile at Topeka.

McCormick is the father of Delmar McCormick of Lisbon; William McCormick, general store proprietor at Congo, and Attorney S. E. McCormick of Salineville. A daughter, Mrs. Eva Laughlin of Pittsburgh, also survives him.

He was standing on the sidewalk on one of the business corners of his home city, waiting an opportunity to cross the street when he was struck by a car, driven by Mrs. Permelia Cone, a school teacher. The woman, it is claimed by witnesses, lost control of the automobile as she attempted to turn off a cross street. The auto leaped over the curb and dragged Mr. McCormick several feet before it was brought to a stop.

The injured man was carried into an automobile salesroom and later taken to a hospital. He died within a few minutes after reaching the institution.

McCormick was a member of the Knights of Pythias and Odd Fellows and was also connected with the Security Benefit association. He was affiliated with the United Presbyterian church.

Funeral services and burial took place at Topeka.

Gompers

returning from the Pan-American labor meet.

Gompers was first taken ill with a bronchial affliction Monday night and ordered to bed. His condition gradually became worse until Wednesday when he was taken aboard a train for the north on a stretcher.

President Calles of Mexico offered the services of military physicians, but this was not deemed necessary and the sick chieftain of organized labor showed constant improvement after leaving the high altitude of the Mexican mountain ranges.

Physicians Check Rumors.

The lower altitude met as the train bearing the stricken labor chieftain sped to the United States border were said to have materially benefited the "grave lung ailment," from which Gompers was stricken in Mexico City.

Enroute to the states, however, Gompers' train had to cross two mountain ranges higher than those at Mexico City and this fact, together with the poor facilities for communication along the route, gave rise to reports that he had died.

These continued to reach here all day from various points in Mexico until even labor leaders in Mexico and the border states became convinced the chief's end had come.

It was not until the train neared the international border where wires could be reached, that the persistent report of death, which was virtually semi-official, was checked by a bulletin from attending physicians. This announced the improvement in Gompers' condition and said that, while he was "very weak," he was not critically ill.

"Slightly Improved," Says Message

LAREDO, Tex., Dec. 12—The train carrying Samuel Gompers, ill labor chief, arrived at Nuevo Laredo, Mexico at 9:30 o'clock this morning and is due at San Antonio at 3:45 o'clock this afternoon.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12—A telegram sent from Laredo, Texas, at 9:25 a. m. to the American Federation of Labor here said that Samuel Gompers had passed through the night "better than expected" and that his condition was "slightly improved" this morning.

On Wednesday, Miss Keenan carried underwear and clothing for the boys and the babes, mother and daughters. The mercy organization has kept a watchful eye on the Howell home since early in October when typhoid fever, which has resulted in two deaths, broke out in that particular section of Wellsville.

Two trained nurses were kept in attendance; then one trained nurse and a practical nurse. One nurse was on duty for four weeks, another for five.

Miss Keenan has seen to the washings of the family, kept food going into the home, and with funds of the Red Cross paid their gas bills, the rent for their home, and countless other expenses.

The Red Cross has done herculean duty in caring for this family. Funds of the organization here are not exceptionally heavy. There may be otner cases demanding attention. They can hardly do more.

Christmas will soon be here. Everyone seems to be happy. Will Santa Claus go right up Main street and overlook the home of George and Edith Howell?

Red Cross Meeting To Arrange Nursing Service is Called

The executive committee of the East Liverpool chapter of the American Red Cross will meet in the headquarters in the Betz building next Tuesday evening to arrange for the resumption of the nursing division activities here early in the new year.

The meeting has been called by Mrs. H. C. Ostermann, chairman. The committee will select a nurse to handle the local work.

The Red Cross has approximately $1,000 available for its activities during the coming year. This is said to be sufficient to meet the salary of a nurse provided part of the expense is borne by the health board.

Miss Ella Binsley, Lisbon registered nurse, who was in charge of the office here before the nursing service was suspended this summer is not available for the local position, as she's now engaged in West Virginia.

Illinois Central President Predicts Era of Prosperity

NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—A long continued period of prosperity for the American people was predicted today by Charles G. Markham, president of the Illinois Central railroad, in an address to the Association of Life Insurance Presidents in convention here.

Discussing "Railroads and National Expansion," Markham said that the railroads have everything to gain by going to the public with their problems.

Unfrocked Pastor's Love Letters Read At Murder Trial

MT. VERNON, Ill., Dec. 12.—The love letters of Rev. Lawrence M. Hight—the little notes in which he poured out the story of his "perfect love," for Elsie M. Sweetin—today stalked about the little courtroom here where he and Elsie are on trial for their lives for the murder of Wilford, Elsie's husband, to further confound the defense story of the jocky-pastor.

The tender phrases, re-echoed as part of the chain of evidence by which the state expects to hang the unfrocked minister, indict Hight as false to his martial vows, and, the state contends, hold up the compelling urge of desire as the motive for the "arsenic murders."

Japanese Officials Deny Increase in Ship Gun Elevation

TOKIO, Dec. 12.—Emphatic denial was made here today by both the foreign office and the navy department that Japan has increased the gun elevation of her battleships.

The foreign office declared that the government has prepared a statement on the subject of gun elevation for tarnsmission to both the United States and Great Britain, but that this statement is being temporarily held up.

The foreign office added that Japan will not start elevation of her guns before an exchange of views on the matter has been made with other naval powers.

Japan will live up to the terms of the Washington disarmament conference and will complete the scrapping of surplus warship tonnage before next February 17, according to officials at the navy department.

Dalton, it is claimed, was shot by a member of a posse, including the sheriff and chief of police of Ashland, when Dalton, driving an automobile, refused to obey a command to halt. The posse was hunting for illicit liquor.

Third Party Plans Discussed at Meet In Guarded Room

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12—In a guarded room atop the Machinists' building here today, a little group of men and women discussed plans for launching in the United States a permanent new political party.

They were members of the executive council of the Conference for Progressive Political Action, the organization, which first endorsed the Independent presidential candidacy of Senator Robert M. La Follette, of Wisconsin and which supported him vigorously in the recent campaign.

Individually, at least, most of the members favored creation of a new party, a movement seeking the backing of the workers and farmers of the country for concerted political action in future national and state elections.

PARIS, Dec. 12.—Financial Minister Clementel said today that he had sent an invitation to Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, "urging him to come to Paris personally and attend the financial conference January 6."

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—Secretary of the Treasury Mellon stated today he has not yet received an invitation from the French finance minister to attend the Allied financial conference in Europe on Jan. 6.

In the absence of the invitation, no indication was given as to Mr. Mellon's reply, but it is believed improbable that he will attend.

this morning as to whether Victor C. Emden, business adviser, was to be permitted to continue his testimony.

Emden, the district attorney declared, if he is permitted to testify, will relate that McCoy was "extremely jealous" of his position in relation to Mrs. Mors.

The witness will testify McCoy had driven Emden and Mrs. Mors down town for a business engagement and later drove away and left them in anger.

Divorced Husband Ill.

"I'm no chauffeur: You go whispering, whispering and whispering like I was a—chauffeur," McCoy told Emden at the time, the witness will recite, the District Attorney says.

Emden also was to relate what happened at Mrs. Mors' shop the morning she was found dead. He will tell, according to the prosecution, how McCoy stuck a gun in the faces of persons in the shop, ordered them to give him their money.

He will also testify how McCoy shot William Ross, a visitor in the store, when he attempted flight, and other witnesses will be introduced to relate the alleged shooting by McCoy of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Shapp, keepers of a nearby shop and friends of Mrs. Mors.

Sam Stearns, the man McCoy is said to have ordered to disrobe while he flourished his pistol, and George Kellar, porter at the shop, were also ordered to testify.

Albert A. Mors, divorced husband of the slain woman, and one of the state's principal witnesses, is still ill from a collapse he suffered yesterday and probably will not testify until tomorrow.

Welling home. The Review-Tribune is deserving of "a very merry Christmas" for its all-the-year-round "good Samaritan" work. You have reminded the community of the Great Master's teaching—"to be kind to the widows and the fatherless."

"Kindly let me know if I can be of further service to these children either in or out of school. To the Welling children and all the children of this community I am wishing the "merriest Christmas" in the protection and security of their homes and schools.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—Railroad stocks led in a spirited rally in the early trading today: Copper stocks made a good contribution and before the end of the first hour the whole market, with the exception of the laggard Ils, was embarked on a vigorous upward movement. Public utility stocks under the leadership of Consolidated Gas were also strongly in demand at considerably higher prices.

Stocks of the railroad companies concerned in the Nickle Plate merger led teh railroad group, though a number of prominent dividend stocks like Baltimore and Ohio, and Lehigh Valley sold two or three points above their best previous price records. Baltimore and Ohio at 79¾, up 3¼ points, reflected the growing confidence in the financial district in the increase in dividend of ths road from five to six per cent. Lehigh Valley is also in line for a larger dividend according tocurrent reports .

The confident statement of Mr. O. P. Vansweringen, who is now in this city consummating the lease, in connection with the merger of Erie, Chesapeake and Ohio, and Pere Marquette with the Nickle Plate road, led to spirited buying of these stocks at the best prices of the year. Nickle Plate jumped five points to a new high at 1.23½; Chesapeake and Ohio was above 96 for a gain of 2 points, Erie common and the two preferred stock issues moved briskly to the highest levels for the movement. Utah securities was again the leader of the Metal shares, with a rise of three points to 44¼, Kennecott and Anaconda were strong and active.

Consolidated Gas and Brooklyn Union Gas led the market in Public Utilities. Call money loaned at 3½ per cent.

DINNER FUND IS NEAR $300

Salvation Army Appeals to Business and Professional Men.

The Salvation Army Christmas dinner and winter relief fund reached $295.58 today, with contributions yesterday amounting to $52.39.

Four street kettles netted $45.39, while one solicitor working in the potteries during the afternoon secured $7.10. The previously reported total was $243.19.

Among the large contributions secured thus far were two for $25, given by B. M. Louthan and W. B. Louthan, of the Louthan Manufacturing company.

No house-to-house canvassing is being done by the Salvation Army, Adjutant Dean said, in referring to reports made to him that a woman, who is said to have posed as a representative of the Army, was making calls for contributions.

"We have no house-to house solicitors," said the adjutant. "We are making our appeal by canvassing the potteries, sending out letters and urging contributions be dropped in kettles placed on street corners in the uptown dsitrict."

Approximately 500 letters to business and professional men have been sent out by Adjutant J. G. Dean, appealing for funds. The letter follows:

"Salvation Army officers are again besieged with calls for help from the poor of our community.

"Among the needy are families who have come to feel the pinch of poverty through sickness or unemployment. Many feel the pangs of hunger, and all are in want of fuel, clothes or some other necessity. Should we turn them away, or simply offer a few words of pity and 'pass by on the other side?'

"Salvationists believe in a practical Christianity, and as a result of the experience and training of their officers, they are in a position to meet every angle of the social problem.

"Co-operation is needed; and we have no one to appeal to for financial aid but to those who are blessed with a place and position under more fortunate circumstances.

"This is an opportunity for you to make a special gift; your generosity will make possible much happiness. This is just what God would have you do for others. Make all checks and money orders payable to The Salvation Army.

"It is your opportunity to finance human lives. Will you pass it by?"

President Directs Plan to Forestall Postal Pay Vote

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—President Coolidge personally took charge today of the efforts to forestall a vote on the postal pay increase bill, which is expected to result in his veto being overriden in the senate.

At an early hour this morning, the president summoned to the White House a dozen Republican senators and impressed upon them the desirability of avoiding a vote on the bill at this time. His guests went back to the capitol to try to get an unanimous consent agreement to postpone the vote until Postmaster General New can provide a bill which will bring in $68,000,000 additional postal revenue to offset the increase to postal employes carried in the measure.

M. C. M'CORMICK AUTO VICTIM

Former Wayne Township Man Killed in Topeka, Kan.

M. C. McCormick, 64 years old, a former resident of Wayne township, but who has resided at Topeka, Kan., for approximately 45 years, was killed a few days ago when he was run down by an automobile at Topeka.

McCormick is the father of Delmar McCormick of Lisbon; William McCormick, general store proprietor at Congo, and Attorney S. E. McCormick of Salineville. A daughter, Mrs. Eva Laughlin of Pittsburgh, also survives him.

He was standing on the sidewalk on one of the business corners of his home city, waiting an opportunity to cross the street when he was struck by a car, driven by Mrs. Permelia Cone, a school teacher. The woman, it is claimed by witnesses, lost control of the automobile as she attempted to turn off a cross street. The auto leaped over the curb and dragged Mr. McCormick several feet before it was brought to a stop.

The injured man was carried into an automobile salesroom and later taken to a hospital. He died within a few minutes after reaching the institution.

McCormick was a member of the Knights of Pythias and Odd Fellows and was also connected with the Security Benefit association. He was affiliated with the United Presbyterian church.

Funeral services and burial took place at Topeka.

Gompers

returning from the Pan-American labor meet.

Gompers was first taken ill with a bronchial affliction Monday night and ordered to bed. His condition gradually became worse until Wednesday when he was taken aboard a train for the north on a stretcher.

President Calles of Mexico offered the services of military physicians, but this was not deemed necessary and the sick chieftain of organized labor showed constant improvement after leaving the high altitude of the Mexican mountain ranges.

Physicians Check Rumors.

The lower altitude met as the train bearing the stricken labor chieftain sped to the United States border were said to have materially benefited the "grave lung ailment," from which Gompers was stricken in Mexico City.

Enroute to the states, however, Gompers' train had to cross two mountain ranges higher than those at Mexico City and this fact, together with the poor facilities for communication along the route, gave rise to reports that he had died.

These continued to reach here all day from various points in Mexico until even labor leaders in Mexico and the border states became convinced the chief's end had come.

It was not until the train neared the international border where wires could be reached, that the persistent report of death, which was virtually semi-official, was checked by a bulletin from attending physicians. This announced the improvement in Gompers' condition and said that, while he was "very weak," he was not critically ill.

"Slightly Improved," Says Message

LAREDO, Tex., Dec. 12—The train carrying Samuel Gompers, ill labor chief, arrived at Nuevo Laredo, Mexico at 9:30 o'clock this morning and is due at San Antonio at 3:45 o'clock this afternoon.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12—A telegram sent from Laredo, Texas, at 9:25 a. m. to the American Federation of Labor here said that Samuel Gompers had passed through the night "better than expected" and that his condition was "slightly improved" this morning.

home service secretary who is in the south, have provided care little short of that of a father, or a mother.

On Wednesday, Miss Keenan carried underwear and clothing for the boys and the babes, mother and daughters. The mercy organization has kept a watchful eye on the Howell home since early in October when typhoid fever, which has resulted in two deaths, broke out in that particular section of Wellsville.

Two trained nurses were kept in attendance; then one trained nurse and a practical nurse. One nurse was on duty for four weeks, another for five.

Miss Keenan has seen to the washings of the family, kept food going into the home, and with funds of the Red Cross paid their gas bills, the rent for their home, and countless other expenses.

The Red Cross has done herculean duty in caring for this family. Funds of the organization here are not exceptionally heavy. There may be otner cases demanding attention. They can hardly do more.

Christmas will soon be here. Everyone seems to be happy. Will Santa Claus go right up Main street and overlook the home of George and Edith Howell?

Red Cross Meeting To Arrange Nursing Service is Called

The executive committee of the East Liverpool chapter of the American Red Cross will meet in the headquarters in the Betz building next Tuesday evening to arrange for the resumption of the nursing division activities here early in the new year.

The meeting has been called by Mrs. H. C. Ostermann, chairman. The committee will select a nurse to handle the local work.

The Red Cross has approximately $1,000 available for its activities during the coming year. This is said to be sufficient to meet the salary of a nurse provided part of the expense is borne by the health board.

Miss Ella Binsley, Lisbon registered nurse, who was in charge of the office here before the nursing service was suspended this summer is not available for the local position, as she's now engaged in West Virginia.

NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—A long continued period of prosperity for the American people was predicted today by Charles G. Markham, president of the Illinois Central railroad, in an address to the Association of Life Insurance Presidents in convention here.

Discussing "Railroads and National Expansion," Markham said that the railroads have everything to gain by going to the public with their problems.

Unfrocked Pastor's Love Letters Read At Murder Trial

MT. VERNON, Ill., Dec. 12.—The love letters of Rev. Lawrence M. Hight—the little notes in which he poured out the story of his "perfect love," for Elsie M. Sweetin—today stalked about the little courtroom here where he and Elsie are on trial for their lives for the murder of Wilford, Elsie's husband, to further confound the defense story of the jockey-pastor.

The tender phrases, re-echoed as part of the chain of evidence by which the state expects to hang the unfrocked minister, indict Hight as false to his martial vows, and, the state contends, hold up the compelling urge of desire as the motive for the "arsenic murders."

Japanese Officials Deny Increase in Ship Gun Elevation

TOKIO, Dec. 12.—Emphatic denial was made here today by both the foreign office and the navy department that Japan has increased the gun elevation of her battleships.

The foreign office declared that the government has prepared a statement on the subject of gun elevation for tarnsmission to both the United States and Great Britain, but that this statement is being temporarily held up.

The foreign office added that Japan will not start elevation of her guns before an exchange of views on the matter has been made with other naval powers.

Japan will live up to the terms of the Washington disarmament conference and will complete the scrapping of surplus warship tonnage before next February 17, according to officials at the navy department.

Third Party Plans Discussed at Meet In Guarded Room

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12—In a guarded room atop the Machinists' building here today, a little group of men and women discussed plans for launching in the United States a permanent new political party.

They were members of the executive council of the Conference for Progressive Political Action, the organization, which first endorsed the Independent presidential candidacy of Senator Robert M. La Follette, of Wisconsin and which supported him vigorously in the recent campaign.

Individually, at least, most of the members favored creation of a new party, a movement seeking the backing of the workers and farmers of the country for concerted political action in future national and state elections.

Mellon is Invited To Attend Finance Meeting in Paris

PARIS, Dec. 12.—Financial Minister Clementel said today that he had sent an invitation to Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, "urging him to come to Paris personally and attend the financial conference January 6."

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—Secretary of the Treasury Mellon stated today he has not yet received an invitation from the French finance minister to attend the Allied financial conference in Europe on Jan. 6.

In the absence of the invitation, no indication was given as to Mr. Mellon's reply, but it is believed improbable that he will attend.

McCoy Looks

this morning as to whether Victor C. Emden, business adviser, was to be permitted to continue his testimony.

Emden, the district attorney declared, if he is permitted to testify, will relate that McCoy was "extremely jealous" of his position in relation to Mrs. Mors.

The witness will testify McCoy had driven Emden and Mrs. Mors down town for a business engagement and later drove away and left them in anger.

Divorced Husband Ill.

"I'm no chauffeur: You go whispering, whispering and whispering like I was a—chauffeur," McCoy told Emden at the time, the witness will recite, the District Attorney says.

Emden also was to relate what happened at Mrs. Mors' shop the morning she was found dead. He will tell, according to the prosecution, how McCoy stuck a gun in the faces of persons in the shop, ordered them to give him their money.

He will also testify how McCoy shot William Ross, a visitor in the store, when he attempted flight, and other witnesses will be introduced to relate the alleged shooting by McCoy of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Shapp, keepers of a nearby shop and friends of Mrs. Mors.

Sam Stearns, the man McCoy is said to have ordered to disrobe while he flourished his pistol, and George Kellar, porter at the shop, were also ordered to testify.

Albert A. Mors, divorced husband of the slain woman, and one of the state's principal witnesses, is still ill from a collapse he suffered yesterday and probably will not testify until tomorrow.

Public utility stocks under the leadership of Consolidated Gas were also strongly in demand at considerably higher prices.

Stocks of the railroad companies concerned in the Nickle Plate merger led teh railroad group, though a number of prominent dividend stocks like Baltimore and Ohio, and Lehigh Valley sold two or three points above their best previous price records. Baltimore and Ohio at 79½, up 3½ points, reflected the growing confidence in the financial district in the increase in dividend of ths road from five to six per cent. Lehigh Valley is also in line for a larger dividend according tocurrent reports.

The confident statement of Mr. O. P. Vansweringen, who is now in this city consummating the lease, in connection with the merger of Erie, Chesapeake and Ohio, and Pere Marquette with the Nickle Plate road, led to spirited buying of these stocks at the best prices of the year. Nickle Plate jumped five points to a new high at 1.23½; Chesapeake and Ohio was above 96 for a gain of 2 points, Erie common and the two preferred stock issues moved briskly to the highest levels for the movement. DINNER FUND IS NEAR $300

Salvation Army Appeals to Business and Professional Men.

The Salvation Army Christmas dinner and winter relief fund reached $295.58 today, with contributions yesterday amounting to $52.39.

Four street kettles netted $45.39, while one solicitor working in the potteries during the afternoon secured $7.10. The previously reported total was $243.19.

Among the large contributions secured thus far were two for $25, given by B. M. Louthan and W. B. Louthan, of the Louthan Manufacturing company.

No house-to-house canvassing is being done by the Salvation Army, Adjutant Dean said, in referring to reports made to him that a woman, who is said to have posed as a representative of the Army, was making calls for contributions.

"We have no house-to house solicitors," said the adjutant. "We are making our appeal by canvassing the potteries, sending out letters and urging contributions be dropped in kettles placed on street corners in the uptown dsitrict."

Approximately 500 letters to business and professional men have been sent out by Adjutant J. G. Dean, appealing for funds. The letter follows:

"Salvation Army officers are again besieged with calls for help from the poor of our community.

"Among the needy are families who have come to feel the pinch of poverty through sickness or unemployment. Many feel the pangs of hunger, and all are in want of fuel, clothes or some other necessity. Should we turn them away, or simply offer a few words of pity and 'pass by on the other side?'

"Salvationists believe in a practical Christianity, and as a result of the experience and training of their officers, they are in a position to meet every angle of the social problem.

"Co-operation is needed; and we have no one to appeal to for financial aid but to those who are blessed with a place and position under more fortunate circumstances.

"This is an opportunity for you to make a special gift; your generosity will make possible much happiness. This is just what God would have you do for others. Make all checks and money orders payable to The Salvation Army.

"It is your opportunity to finance human lives. Will you pass it by?"

President Directs Plan to Forestall Postal Pay Vote

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—President Coolidge personally took charge today of the efforts to forestall a vote on the postal pay increase bill, which is expected to result in his veto being overriden in the senate.

At an early hour this morning, the president summoned to the White House a dozen Republican senators and impressed upon them the desirability of avoiding a vote on the veto at this time. His guests went back to the capitol to try to get an unanimous consent agreement to postpone the vote until Postmaster General New can provide a bill which will bring in $68,000,000 additional postal revenue to offset the increase to postal employes carried in the measure.

M. C. M'CORMICK AUTO VICTIM

Former Wayne Township Man Killed in Topeka, Kan.

M. C. McCormick, 64 years old, a former resident of Wayne township, but who has resided at Topeka, Kan., for approximately 45 years, was killed a few days ago when he was run down by an automobile at Topeka.

McCormick is the father of Delmar McCormick of Lisbon; William McCormick, general store proprietor at Congo, and Attorney S. E. McCormick of Salineville. A daughter, Mrs. Eva Laughlin of Pittsburgh, also survives him.

He was standing on the sidewalk on one of the business corners of his home city, waiting an opportunity to cross the street when he was struck by a car, driven by Mrs. Permelia Cone, a school teacher. The woman, it is claimed by witnesses, lost control of the automobile as she attempted to turn off a cross street. The auto leaped over the curb and dragged Mr. McCormick several feet before it was brought to a stop.

The injured man was carried into an automobile salesroom and later taken to a hospital. He died within a few minutes after reaching the institution.

McCormick was a member of the Knights of Pythias and Odd Fellows and was also connected with the Security Benefit association. He was affiliated with the United Presbyterian church.

Funeral services and burial took place at Topeka.

Gompers

returning from the Pan-American labor meet.

Gompers was first taken ill with a bronchial affliction Monday night and ordered to bed. His condition gradually became worse until Wednesday when he was taken aboard a train for the north on a stretcher.

President Calles of Mexico offered the services of military physicians, but this was not deemed necessary and the sick chieftain of organized labor showed constant improvement after leaving the high altitude of the Mexican mountain ranges.

Physicians Check Rumors.

The lower altitude met as the train bearing the stricken labor chieftain sped to the United States border were said to have materially benefited the "grave lung ailment," from which Gompers was stricken in Mexico City.

Enroute to the states, however, Gompers' train had to cross two mountain ranges higher than those at Mexico City and this fact, together with the poor facilities for communication along the route, gave rise to reports that he had died.

These continued to reach here all day from various points in Mexico until even labor leaders in Mexico and the border states became convinced the chief's end had come.

It was not until the train neared the international border where wires could be reached, that the persistent report of death, which was virtually semi-official, was checked by a bulletin from attending physicians. This announced the improvement in Gompers' condition and said that, while he was "very weak," he was not critically ill.

"Slightly Improved," Says Message

LAREDO, Tex., Dec. 12—The train carrying Samuel Gompers, ill labor chief, arrived at Nuevo Laredo, Mexico at 9:30 o'clock this morning and is due at San Antonio at 3:45 o'clock this afternoon.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12—A telegram sent from Laredo, Texas, at 9:25 a. m. to the American Federation of Labor here said that Samuel Gompers had passed through the night "better than expected" and that his condition was "slightly improved" this morning.

Will Santa Overlook

home service secretary who is in the south, have provided care little short of that of a father, or a mother.

On Wednesday, Miss Keenan carried underwear and clothing for the boys and the babes, mother and daughters. The mercy organization has kept a watchful eye on the Howell home since early in October when typhoid fever, which has resulted in two deaths, broke out in that particular section of Wellsville.

Two trained nurses were kept in attendance; then one trained nurse and a practical nurse. One nurse was on duty for four weeks, another for five.

Miss Keenan has seen to the washings of the family, kept food going into the home, and with funds of the Red Cross paid their gas bills, the rent for their home, and countless other expenses.

The Red Cross has done herculean duty in caring for this family. Funds of the organization here are not exceptionally heavy. There may be otner cases demanding attention. They can hardly do more.

Christmas will soon be here. Everyone seems to be happy. Will Santa Claus go right up Main street and overlook the home of George and Edith Howell?

Red Cross Meeting To Arrange Nursing Service is Called

The executive committee of the East Liverpool chapter of the American Red Cross will meet in the headquarters in the Betz building next Tuesday evening to arrange for the resumption of the nursing division activities here early in the new year.

The meeting has been called by Mrs. H. C. Ostermann, chairman. The committee will select a nurse to handle the local work.

The Red Cross has approximately $1,000 available for its activities during the coming year. This is said to be sufficient to meet the salary of a nurse provided part of the expense is borne by the health board.

Miss Ella Binsley, Lisbon registered nurse, who was in charge of the office here before the nursing service was suspended this summer is not available for the local position, as she's now engaged in West Virginia.

NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—A long continued period of prosperity for the American people was predicted today by Charles G. Markham, president of the Illinois Central railroad, in an address to the Association of Life Insurance Presidents in convention here.

Discussing "Railroads and National Expansion," Markham said that the railroads have everything to gain by going to the public with their problems.

Unfrocked Pastor's Love Letters Read At Murder Trial

MT. VERNON, Ill., Dec. 12.—The love letters of Rev. Lawrence M. Hight—the little notes in which he poured out the story of his "perfect love," for Elsie M. Sweetin—today stalked about the little courtroom here where he and Elsie are on trial for their lives for the murder of Wilford, Elsie's husband, to further confound the defense story of the jockey-pastor.

The tender phrases, re-echoed as part of the chain of evidence by which the state expects to hang the unfrocked minister, indict Hight as false to his martial vows, and, the state contends, hold up the compelling urge of desire as the motive for the "arsenic murders."

Japanese Officials Deny Increase in Ship Gun Elevation

TOKIO, Dec. 12.—Emphatic denial was made here today by both the foreign office and the navy department that Japan has increased the gun elevation of her battleships.

The foreign office declared that the government has prepared a statement on the subject of gun elevation for tarnsmission to both the United States and Great Britain, but that this statement is being temporarily held up.

The foreign office added that Japan will not start elevation of her guns before an exchange of views on the matter has been made with other naval powers.

Japan will live up to the terms of the Washington disarmament conference and will complete the scrapping of surplus warship tonnage before next February 17, according to officials at the navy department.

Third Party Plans Discussed at Meet In Guarded Room

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12—In a guarded room atop the Machinists' building here today, a little group of men and women discussed plans for launching in the United States a permanent new political party.

They were members of the executive council of the Conference for Progressive Political Action, the organization, which first endorsed the Independent presidential candidacy of Senator Robert M. La Follette, of Wisconsin and which supported him vigorously in the recent campaign.

Individually, at least, most of the members favored creation of a new party, a movement seeking the backing of the workers and farmers of the country for concerted political action in future national and state elections.

Mellon is Invited To Attend Finance Meeting in Paris

PARIS, Dec. 12.—Financial Minister Clementel said today that he had sent an invitation to Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, "urging him to come to Paris personally and attend the financial conference January 6."

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—Secretary of the Treasury Mellon stated today he has not yet received an invitation from the French finance minister to attend the Allied financial conference in Europe on Jan. 6.

In the absence of the invitation, no indication was given as to Mr. Mellon's reply, but it is believed improbable that he will attend.

McCoy Looks

this morning as to whether Victor C. Emden, business adviser, was to be permitted to continue his testimony.

Emden, the district attorney declared, if he is permitted to testify, will relate that McCoy was "extremely jealous" of his position in relation to Mrs. Mors.

The witness will testify McCoy had driven Emden and Mrs. Mors down town for a business engagement and later drove away and left them in anger.

Divorced Husband Ill.

"I'm no chauffeur: You go whispering, whispering and whispering like I was a—chauffeur," McCoy told Emden at the time, the witness will recite, the District Attorney says.

Emden also was to relate what happened at Mrs. Mors' shop the morning she was found dead. He will tell, according to the prosecution, how McCoy stuck a gun in the faces of persons in the shop, ordered them to give him their money.

He will also testify how McCoy shot William Ross, a visitor in the store, when he attempted flight, and other witnesses will be introduced to relate the alleged shooting by McCoy of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Shapp, keepers of a nearby shop and friends of Mrs. Mors.

Sam Stearns, the man McCoy is said to have ordered to disrobe while he flourished his pistol, and George Kellar, porter at the shop, were also ordered to testify.

Albert A. Mors, divorced husband of the slain woman, and one of the state's principal witnesses, is still ill from a collapse he suffered yesterday and probably will not testify until tomorrow.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—Railroad stocks led in a spirited rally in the early trading today: Copper stocks made a good contribution and before the end of the first hour the whole market, with the exception of the laggard Ils, was embarked on a vigorous upward movement. Public utility stocks under the leadership of Consolidated Gas were also strongly in demand at considerably higher prices.

Stocks of the railroad companies concerned in the Nickle Plate merger led teh railroad group, though a number of prominent dividend stocks like Baltimore and Ohio, and Lehigh Valley sold two or three points above their best previous price records. Baltimore and Ohio at 79¾, up 3½ points, reflected the growing confidence in the financial district in the increase in dividend of ths road from five to six per cent. Lehigh Valley is also in line for a larger dividend according tocurrent reports .

The confident statement of Mr. O. P. Vansweringen, who is now in this city consummating the lease, in connection with the merger of Erie, Chesapeake and Ohio, and Pere Marquette with the Nickle Plate road, led to spirited buying of these stocks at the best prices of the year. Nickle Plate jumped five points to a new high at 1.23½; Chesapeake and Ohio was above 96 for a gain of 2 points, Erie common and the two preferred stock issues moved briskly to the highest levels for the movement. Utah securities was again the leader of the Metal shares, with a rise of three points to 44¼, Kennecott and Anaconda were strong and active.

Consolidated Gas and Brooklyn Union Gas led the market in Public Utilities. Call money loaned at 3½ per cent.

DINNER FUND IS NEAR $300

Salvation Army Appeals to Business and Professional Men.

The Salvation Army Christmas dinner and winter relief fund reached $295.58 today, with contributions yesterday amounting to $52.39.

Four street kettles netted $45.39, while one solicitor working in the potteries during the afternoon secured $7.10. The previously reported total was $243.19.

Among the large contributions secured thus far were two for $25, given by B. M. Louthan and W. B. Louthan, of the Louthan Manufacturing company.

No house-to-house canvassing is being done by the Salvation Army, Adjutant Dean said, in referring to reports made to him that a woman, who is said to have posed as a representative of the Army, was making calls for contributions.

"We have no house-to-house solicitors," said the adjutant. "We are making our appeal by canvassing the potteries, sending out letters and urging contributions be dropped in kettles placed on street corners in the uptown dsitrict."

Approximately 500 letters to business and professional men have been sent out by Adjutant J. G. Dean, appealing for funds. The letter follows:

"Salvation Army officers are again besieged with calls for help from the poor of our community.

"Among the needy are families who have come to feel the pinch of poverty through sickness or unemployment. Many feel the pangs of hunger, and all are in want of fuel, clothes or some other necessity. Should we turn them away, or simply offer a few words of pity and 'pass by on the other side?'

"Salvationists believe in a practical Christianity, and as a result of the experience and training of their officers, they are in a position to meet every angle of the social problem.

"Co-operation is needed; and have no one to appeal to for financial aid but to those who are blessed with a place and position under more fortunate circumstances.

"This is an opportunity for you to make a special gift; your generosity will make possible much happiness. This is just what God would have you do for others. Make all checks and money orders payable to The Salvation Army.

"It is your opportunity to finance human lives. Will you pass it by?"

President Directs Plan to Forestall Postal Pay Vote

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—President Coolidge personally took charge today of the efforts to forestall a vote on the postal pay increase bill, which is expected to result in his veto being overriden in the senate.

At an early hour this morning, the president summoned to the White House a dozen Republican senators and impressed upon them the desirability of avoiding a vote on the veto at this time. His guests went back to the capitol to try to get an unanimous consent agreement to postpone the vote until Postmaster General New can provide a bill which will bring in $68,000,000 additional postal revenue to offset the increase to postal employes carried in the measure.

CITY SOLONS VOTE TO PAY $11,500 BILL TO AVERT LIGHTLESS NIGHT

Meet Demand of Ohio Power Co. by Authorizing Bond Issue in Order to Stave Off "Dark Street" Plan.

The city of Wellsville will issue bonds to pay its lighting debt to the Ohio Power Co.

Recalling visions of the lightless nights of the era of the great world war, city council yesterday afternoon acted quickly and decisively upon the demand for long due cash from the Ohio Power Co., and as a result, street illumination which was to have been extinguished promptly at midnight last night while the city slept, continued until early hours of morning and will go on indefinitely—if bills are paid.

The city owes the Ohio Power Co. a debt of approximately $11,500.

Power company officials felt that they had no reasonable grounds for continuing to give service with payments not forthcoming. Acting upon the business basis of "pay or no service," and after granting every possible extension, they were forced to issue an ultimatom to the city which specifies that on last night at midnight lights would go out if the debt was not paid.

City officials concurred in the opinion that the power company action was reasonable, so, at a special session yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock in council chamber, found a way to meet the obligation.

Bonds will be issued to the amount of approximately $8,000, in round numbers, taking care of every cent of the debt up until the first of the year. This leaves about $3,500, or a little more, of the total.

This amount will be paid to the Ohio Power Co., on or before July 1, 1925, out of incoming money, according to agreement reached by the city and the company's representatives.

The bonds which will be issued to cover the major portion of the total debt will first be approved by Solicitor George D. Ingram, O. K.'d by the power company and then must pass inspection in the eyes of unbiased expert bond attorneys. Meeting with approval all along the route they will be accepted by the power company. They will bear a 6 percent interest rate.

Before endorsing plans of council, power company representatives, including General Manager Couch and Attorney W. H. Vodrey, obtained a promise from the municipal representatives that in the event City Auditor Fred Eckfeld finds it impossible to pay off $3,500, or a trifle more, the sum remaining after the $8,000 worth of bonds are accepted, the city will issue bonds for this amount.

Auditor Eckfeld, however, declared he knew of no reason at the present time for possible failure to pay off the debt before the time specified.

The city was represented at the conference by Counci President Frank C. Blackburn, Solicitor George D. Ingram and Solons Connor, Peters, Baker and Nicholson. Councilmen Ewing and White were unable to attend.

Postal Salaries

The bill to raise the pay of postal clerks and carriers will be urged again at the present session. It is sure to have strong support, in spite of its veto by the president in the last session. Congressmen who favored the measure before still favor it, for the most part. The public, directly interested through its contact with the mail carriers particularly, is deeply sympathetic toward this class of public servants.

It is generally realized that the postal employes have had only one pay raise amounting to anything since before the war, that they have great difficulty in living on their present salaries of $1,400 to $1,800 a year, that the cost of living is rising again, that their pay is lower than the pay of men of similar intelligence and skill in private employment and that the pressure of inadequate pay is squeezing the best men out of the service.

It is believed that the president, with all his zeal for economy, will not seriously oppose a renewed effort for a moderate raise in postal salaries, when so many of his advisers believe that this is not a good place to economize.

Muscle Shoals Again

Once more Muscle Shoals becomes a live subject. And once more Henry Ford is regarded as a possible owner or tenant of that great power project. The unfinished government work at the Shoals is now near completion.

The electrical and nitrate plants, it is expected, will be ready for operation next summer. Everybody wants the plants utilized, whether by public or private capital, for the benefit of the country. It will be necessary soon to do something about the matter. So Mr. Ford is being urged to renew his offer.

There is magic in the Ford name. There is also magic in Muscle Shoals. In the long run, the Shoals project will probably be far more important than any man connected with it, now or hereafter. Its power presumably will go on forever, and become of more and more use to the nation, as fuel resources decrease.

It is important particularly at this stage of proceedings not to alienate the property permanently, or for any very long period, or make any unwise bargains. If Mr. Ford is really the best man to handle the huge Alabama power plant, he can show it by making a more definite and satisfactory offer than he has yet made, showing explicitly what he proposes to do with the nation's property and giving proper guarantees of a suitable rental and the eventual return of the property to its owner.

As matters stand, other offers are generally regarded as intrinsically better than Mr. Ford's, his only advantage being the prestige of the Ford name.

Put the Cold to Bed

The weary doctor looked at his patient.

"Well," he drawled, "of course, if your insurance is all paid up and you want to gamble, go ahead and stay up. You might just possibly get away with it. But if you'll put the cold to bed for about 24 hours, you won't be taking any fool chances. It seems to be a fact that the more activity of being up and about makes the kind of cold you've got spread through your system. Take about one more trip down town in your present state, and I'll have a real job here. Pneumonia and a trained nurse and all the frills, including quite likely the undertaker."

All colds should be put to bed for one day, say the doctors with most wisdom and experience. One's own forces will break up the cold if they are given a chance to work at that job exclusively for a short time. But when one's forces are driven over their accustomed path in spite of the cold, they have no extra margin to fight the cold with. Mr. Cold wins the first battle and, instead of a day, hangs on for a week or more. Sometimes he hangs on all winter.

Moreover, the fellow with the cold manages to infect a dozen others while going his rounds. The epidemic spreads, with its attendant losses of comfort, money, sometimes health and far too often life itself.

Put the cold to bed for 24 hours. The office can spare you one day better than it can stand an epidemic. You are not so important. Try it.

Buyers in a bull market never believe that what goes up must come down.

TODAY

BY ARTHUR BRISBANE

(The opinions expressed in this column are strictly those of Mr. Brisbane and not necessarily in consonance with the policies of The Review-Tribune).

HIS MAJESTY SPEAKS

The king of England opens "his" parliament in which he has as little real power as one of the Hopi papooses.

He makes a speech written by Baldwin, this time. Had the election gone otherwise, Lloyd George, Asquith or MacDonald would have written it for him.

The words put in the king's mouth tell of England's determination to go ahead with the great naval base at Singapore. The Labor party meant to give that up. The Tories reverse the decision. This country will welcome Britain's Singapore base, as it means added protection fo rthe white races against Asia.

The great crime of the Washington conference was our agreement not to fortify Guam.

As a result of that agreement we now have certain elements in Japan impertinently questioning America's right to send her fleet into the Pacific ocean.

Britain's king expresses the British decision of the recent election, saying he will not ask parliament to consider treaties with Russia. But "normal intercourse between the two countries shall not be interrupted."

That's common sense. "Whatever else you do, don't interfere with business," is the motto. Lord Beaverbrook, when here last time, said:

"Trade with Russia? Of course we trade with Russia. We trade with cannibals if they have anything that we want, or can buy anything we want to sell."

The British have plenty of sentiment, but it's in their books of poetry. They don't let it interfere with the growth of the British empire.

EASTMAN AND DUKE GIVE

One dispatch tells that James B. Duke, who has made millions in many enterprises, is giving an enormous fortune to education and charity, tens of millions.

Another dispatch tells you that Mr. Eastman, of Rochester, following other generous gifts, now gives $15,000,000 more for education. He gives away priceless stock in his great enterprise and says he will enjoy managing the concern all the more, knowing that while he works for the kodak company the money that it earns will be working for other people.

That "wholesome altruism" fortunately for this nation, increases here every day. The man that once would have used his fortune in a foolish effort to bribe divine providence, now dedicates a fortune to the service of others, thinking more about the welfare of millions of his fellow men than about his own unimportant little soul.

WE WORK FOR EACH OTHER

The pioneers that struggled across this continent, seeking out paths over the mountains, fighting for life as they came, thought they were coming here to find gold for themselves. They were opening the way for millions destined to find health and happiness in a higher civilization on this coast.

Old frontiersmen in the east, of Daniel Boone's type, cutting down trees, fighting Indians, shooting bears, thought they were merely establishing homesteads for their own children.

They were units of energy, helping to create the United States.

Those tiny creatures that work under the waters of the Pacific ocean, building up coral reefs, building each a little place for itself were, by combined efforts, building the beautiful islands of the Pacific.

As they worked, so we work, always for the future.

EVEN THE MOON WORKS

If the moon thinks at all, as she sails in silver majesty through this dark blue sky of evening, she probably thinks that she travels around the earth for her own delight. But divine wisdom through the power of gravitation has harnessed her to the oceans of the earth.

And as she travels, without knowing it, she creates tides that prevent the ocean becoming a stagnant disease-breeding pond and in time will supply power for men everywhere on earth.

Powerful men that money, millions, tens of millions, even hundreds of millions, Eastman, Duke, Carnegie, Rockefeller, Baker, perhaps don't realize that when they give money, they make their least important gifts to the people. The value of their own work far excels that of all the money they leave or give away. Their money is an unimportant by-product of their lives.

When John D. Rockefeller established the fact that competition is wasteful, and that organization on a big scale means economy and efficiency, he rendered a greater service to the people than in giving all his hundreds of millions.

When Mr. Eastman educated the traveling world to keep a record of things seen, and made it easy and inexpensive for mothers to keep a record of their children's growth, at the same time employing well-paid thousands, and building up a great city, he rendered his real service.

So with Mr. Duke. When he built his scores of power plants in the south, harnessing energy going to waste, providing work at home for thousands and building up the southern states to which he is attached by deep affection, he was doing more than merely giving away forty odd millions at one time.

It's a world of contrasts. You note the record of generous gifts and unselfish planning. You read that our two dirigibles, Los Angeles and Shenandoah are to be used by astronomers, studying eclipses and other cosmic phenomena, you say "we are gradually becoming a civilized race."

Next you read from William Ockert, aged 29, his brief complete statement: "My own brother tried to take my wife away from me, so I got a shotgun and let him have both barrels."

This reminds you that civilization thus far appears only in spots. But you know that it is growing, that in time changes all over the earth will be as great as the last few years in this marvelous region, where a great, beautiful city replaces what only yesterday was the sandy domain of the horned toad.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—Thoughts while strolling around New York: A gay supper club at midnight. Irving Berlin in a corner. As glum as an owl. Noisy irresponsible throngs overflowing the tiny dance floor. A poet dances with one arm in a sling. Pegasus with a broken wing.

Bandit waiters who insist on tips that rustle instead of tinkle. The hard faced floor manager. With "bouncers" in waiting. A stern British moralist looking on a bit contemptuously. Florence Walton and Leon Letrim dance. The odd acute glitter of colored lights.

Bacon and eggs—$1.50 an order. And a $3 cover charge. The jolting and rumbling of milk wagons outside. A group of chorus girls with a venerable high flying bachelor. Long Island ladies who have not lost their summer tan.

And they'll soon be off to Palm Beach to renew it. In my day they wore sunbonnets to keep it off. A millionaire's son who recently fell heir to millions. Looking bored. I got more of a kick than he out of my first pair of bicycle pants holders.

College boys with small rolls and big courage. And they must get back to New Haven in time for chapel. A few corks pop. Gingerale no doubt. They don't, by any chance, serve drinks in New York do they? A woman with a peacock headdress shot with jewels.

The last waltz. But the crowd stays on. The noisy roar at the entrance. Hat check girls exacting the final tribute. Old women selling frayed morning editions, chewing gum and flowers. First pink of early dawn.

Early workers throwing off sleep. A slight fog blows up from the harbor. Shuffling men with turned up collars and pulled down caps. The first group at the Help Wanted bulletin board in Times Square. Wish I'd gone to bed early.

New York's three tabloid newspapers—the Daily News, The Mirror and lately The Graphic which is published by Bernarr MacFadden, the physical culture expert, have provided jobs for many jobless newspapermen. Probably more work for Mr. Munsey in the offing.

One of the leading theatrical hits of the season is "What Price Glory?" written by Laurence Stallings, who lost a leg in Belleau Woods. He returned to New York and became a copy reader on the World. The play is said to be his own reactions to his adjustment to civil life after his return.

Newspapermen this season have led in writing the leading theatrical hits. Marc Connelly and George S. Kaufman, both newspapermen, are now on their fourth decisive hit. Twelve other productions that give promise of long runs are by Park Row scribes.

A rich New Yorker is said to have offered a million dollars to be relieved of gout. But health is one thing you cannot buy. It is a matter of history that the late J. Pierpont Morgan offered a million to the doctor who could partially arrest the affliction that disfigured his nose.

There is a bachelor on Madison avenue who has an 8-room apartment. He has been living in it for more than two years, but not once has anyone set their feet inside the place save the bachelor and his reinue of servants. To a reporter who interviewed him, he said: "I gave up one apartment because my hospitality resulted in many fine treasures being ruined. My new apartment is going to be my home and when I want to entertain I will do it in public places. It used to be men and women could drink a few cocktails and behave themselves, but not any more."

At a prayer meeting in a negro church the pastor was explaining the passage which tells of the passing of the children of Israel through the Red Sea.

"It is all very simple," he said. "You know that water generally flows down hill, but in this yere instance things was jus' reversed. The water, instead of flowin' down hill, done suddenly flow up hill, leabin' the bottom of the sea all dry, so that all the chidren ob Israel jus' passes ober without eben wettin' their feet. Then—"

"But," interrupted a young negro who had been to college, "it wouldn't have done that, pastor. It would have been against the law of gravitation."

"You jest set down, sah," answered the pastor. "You don't know what you are talkin' about. This all happened three thousand years 'before the law of gravitation done been discovered."

Haskin Letter

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN

THE ISLE OF PINES MYSTERY

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—What is the mysterious power or influence that has kept the United States senate from ratifying the famous Isle of Pines treaty for more than 20 years? Or is it possible that there is nothing at all mysterious about it and that the treaty has been held up in the ordinary legislative processes of the senate?

No prizes are being offered for the best answers to these questions, but a lot of people are asking the questions and would appreciate authoritative answers. They regard it as extraordinary, to say the least, that a treaty should hang fire in the senate for almost a quarter of a century, especially when the treaty has been reported favorably from time to time by the committee of foreign affairs and has had the backing of five presidents and every secretary of state since it was negotiated by the late John Hay.

As this is written the treaty is scheduled to be taken up by the senate at an early date, and it is possible that it will be disposed of promptly and definitely. However, senators who may know say there will be no hasty action by the senate, and judging by the record of the past that seems a safe prognostication.

The treaty is most frequently described as one that cedes the Isle of Pines to Cuba. That is an error. To cede, the United States would have to own or possess, and the island has been under the Cuban flag since May 30, 1902. In reality, the treaty is one to clear title, for by its terms this country "relinquishes in favor of the republic of Cuba all claim of title to the Island of Pines, which has been or may be made in virtue of articles I and II of the treaty of peace between the United States and Spain."

Furthermore, the treaty declares that "the relinquishment, on the part of the United States, of claim of title to the said Isle of Pines, is in consideration of the grants of coaling and naval stations in the Island of Cuba heretofore made to the United States of America by the republic of Cuba."

Thus the United States is in the somewhat embarrassing position of a debtor who does not pay his debts, although he is abundantly able to do so. We accepted something extremely valuable and highly desirable from Cuba, and in turn agreed to give Cuba something that really was already hers, and then we failed to make good our agreement. We have refused steadfastly to yield the "quid" for the "quo."

OTHER COUNTRIES EXCITED

Naturally Cuba is a bit "het up" over the matter, and it is said that other Latin-America countries are almost equally excited about it, feeling that since the United States has broken faith with Cuba other covenants may be treated as scraps of paper. That is not quite fair, however, for the United States has deprived Cuba of nothing of actual value. Cuba has enjoyed all the benefits there may be in possessing and governing the Isle of Pines. The republic isn't even in the position of a man who wants to clear the title of a piece of real estate in order to sell it, for the Isle of Pines isn't for sale, and never will be.

The record in this matter is an interesting one. By the treaty of peace Spain relinquished all claim of sovereignty over and title to Cuba, with the understanding that it was to be, at the proper time, turned over to the government and control of its own people. The Isle of Pines, up to that time, had always been regarded as a part of Cuba.

However, when congress adopted the Platt amendment, which was to enable the Cubans to paddle their own canoe, the provision was incorporated in it that "the Isle of Pines shall be omitted from the proposed constitutional boundaries of Cuba, the title thereto being left to future adjustment by treaty."

In 1903 two treaties were negotiated with Cuba—one by which the coaling and naval stations at Guantanamo and Bahia Honda were leased to the United States, and the other what was in effect a quit claim deed to the Isle of Pines. The first was ratified by the senate, but the second failed ratification. March 2, 1904, a second treaty relinquishing claim to title to the Isle of Pines was negotiated, and it is the one now pending. It was first reported favorably from the foreign affairs committee by the late Senator Foraker, of Ohio, in February, 1906. Three times it has been sent back to the committee.

Meanwhile a considerable number of Americans, perhaps, 10,000 in all, purchased land in the Isle of Pines, and several hundred of them have gone there to live. They claim that they acquired the property under the representation that the island belonged to the United States, and they have always insisted that the United States should assert sovereignty rather than relinquish claim to title.

TWO MIGHTY SENATORS

One explanation of the strange procedure in the senate with respect to the treaty is that a large number of these investors were citizens of Ohio and Alabama, and have been able to enlist the support of the senators from those states. When the senate has been confronted with the spectacle of two of its members of opposite political faith agreeing upon anything it has invariably yielded to their instance. Senator Willis and Senator Heflin are the two solons said to have teamed up most effectively in staving off favorable action on the Isle of Pines covenant.

However, this explanation is not accepted unreservedly by persons well informed about the senate. It is true that Senators Willis and Heflin could probably make more noise saying "no" than all the rest of the senate could make saying "aye," but that doesn't constitute them a majority of the upper house of congress. And it is a bit difficult to understand why a combination of a Republican and a Democrat should have any particular bearing upon the determination of a non-partisan question, or how any two senators, or any minority group of senators, can defeat the will of the committee on foreign affairs and the administration as represented by the president and the secretary of state.

And, just to add to the mystery about this Isle of Pines business, it may be pointed out that there's nothing to be gained by deferring action on the treaty or defeating ratification. In 1905 Elihu Root, as secretary of state, said he had no doubt that the island was a part of Cuba, and that it was not and never had been territory of the United States, and then he added:

"Nor would the rejection of the pending treaty put an end to the control of Cuba over the island. A treaty directly contrary to the one now pending would be necessary to do that, and there is not the slightest prospect of such treaty being made. You may be quite sure that Cuba will never consent to give up the Isle of Pines and the United States will never try to compel her to give it up against her will."

Two years after Mr. Root expressed that opinion the supreme court decided in a customs case that the island was a part of Cuba and that its de facto government was that of Cuba.

In the face of all this it is amazing not only that opposition to the treaty should be so effective, but that there should be any opposition at all. As Captain Elbridge Colby says, "The real issue is not whether Cuba owns it (the island), but whether or not an area like this is worth the creation of international friction. We cannot presume to seize and place under our flag every piece of real estate here or there throughout the world which happens to be in American hands. It is furthermore absolutely certain that whatever prospects of strategic value for naval operations the Isle of Pines may have had, it has practically none now.

Farmers in northern New York state have taken up arms against a vicious deer, which kills horses. Hadn't they better protect their dogs from the rabbits, too?

Postal Salaries

The bill to raise the pay of postal clerks and carriers will be urged again at the present session. It is sure to have strong support, in spite of its veto by the president in the last session. Congressmen who favored the measure before still favor it, for the most part. The public, directly interested through its contact with the mail carriers particularly, is deeply sympathetic toward this class of public servants.

It is generally realized that the postal employes have had only one pay raise amounting to anything since before the war, that they have great difficulty in living on their present salaries of $1,400 to $1,800 a year, that the cost of living is rising again, that their pay is lower than the pay of men of similar intelligence and skill in private employment and that the pressure of inadequate pay is squeezing the best men out of the service.

It is believed that the president, with all his zeal for economy, will not seriously oppose a renewed effort for a moderate raise in postal salaries, when so many of his advisers believe that this is not a good place to economize.

Muscle Shoals Again

Once more Muscle Shoals becomes a live subject. And once more Henry Ford is regarded as a possible owner or tenant of that great power project. The unfinished government work at the Shoals is now near completion.

The electrical and nitrate plants, it is expected, will be ready for operation next summer. Everybody wants the plants utilized, whether by public or private capital, for the benefit of the country. It will be necessary soon to do something about the matter. So Mr. Ford is being urged to renew his offer.

There is magic in the Ford name. There is also magic in Muscle Shoals. In the long run, the Shoals project will probably be far more important than any man connected with it, now or hereafter. Its power presumably will go on forever, and become of more and more use to the nation, as fuel resources decrease.

It is important particularly at this stage of proceedings not to alienate the property permanently, or for any very long period, or make any unwise bargains. If Mr. Ford is really the best man to handle the huge Alabama power plant, he can show it by making a more definite and satisfactory offer than he has yet made, showing explicitly what he proposes to do with the nation's property and giving proper guarantees of a suitable rental and the eventual return of the property to its owner.

As matters stand, other offers are generally regarded as intrinsically better than Mr. Ford's, his only advantage being the prestige of the Ford name.

Put the Cold to Bed

The weary doctor looked at his patient.

"Well," he drawled, "of course, if your insurance is all paid up and you want to gamble, go ahead and stay up. You might just possibly get away with it. But if you'll put the cold to bed for about 24 hours, you won't be taking any fool chances. It seems to be a fact that the more activity of being up and about makes the kind of cold you've got spread through your system. Take about one more trip down town in your present state, and I'll have a real job here. Pneumonia and a trained nurse and all the frills, including quite likely the undertaker."

All colds should be put to bed for one day, say the doctors with most wisdom and experience. One's own forces will break up the cold if they are given a chance to work at that job exclusively for a short time. But when one's forces are driven over their accustomed path in spite of the cold, they have no extra margin to fight the cold with. Mr. Cold wins the first battle and, instead of a day, hangs on for a week or more. Sometimes he hangs on all winter.

Moreover, the fellow with the cold manages to infect a dozen others while going his rounds. The epidemic spreads, with its attendant losses of comfort, money, sometimes health and far too often life itself.

Put the cold to bed for 24 hours. The office can spare you one day better than it can stand an epidemic. You are not so important. Try it.

HIS MAJESTY SPEAKS

The king of England opens "his" parliament in which he has as little real power as one of the Hopi papooses.

He makes a speech written by Baldwin, this time. Had the election gone otherwise, Lloyd George, Asquith or MacDonald would have written it for him.

The words put in the king's mouth tell of England's determination to go ahead with the great naval base at Singapore. The Labor party meant to give that up. The Tories reverse the decision. This country will welcome Britain's Singapore base, as it means added protection fo rthe white races against Asia.

The great crime of the Washington conference was our agreement not to fortify Guam.

As a result of that agreement we now have certain elements in Japan impertinently questioning America's right to send her fleet into the Pacific ocean.

Britain's king expresses the British decision of the recent election, saying he will not ask parliament to consider treaties with Russia. But "normal intercourse between the two countries shall not be interrupted."

That's common sense. "Whatever else you do, don't interfere with business," is the motto. Lord Beaverbrook, when here last time, said:

"Trade with Russia? Of course we trade with Russia. We trade with cannibals if they have anything that we want, or can buy anything we want to sell."

The British have plenty of sentiment, but it's in their books of poetry. They don't let it interfere with the growth of the British empire.

EASTMAN AND DUKE GIVE

One dispatch tells that James B. Duke, who has made millions in many enterprises, is giving an enormous fortune to education and charity, tens of millions.

Another dispatch tells you that Mr. Eastman, of Rochester, following other generous gifts, now gives $15,000,000 more for education. He gives away priceless stock in his great enterprise and says he will enjoy managing the concern all the more, knowing that while he works for the kodak company the money that it earns will be working for other people.

That "wholesome altruism" fortunately for this nation, increases here every day. The man that once would have used his fortune in a foolish effort to bribe divine providence, now dedicates a fortune to the service of others, thinking more about the welfare of millions of his fellow men than about his own unimportant little soul.

WE WORK FOR EACH OTHER

The pioneers that struggled across this continent, seeking out paths over the mountains, fighting for life as they came, thought they were coming here to find gold for themselves. They were opening the way for millions destined to find health and happiness in a higher civilization on this coast.

Old frontiersmen in the east, of Daniel Boone's type, cutting down trees, fighting Indians, shooting bears, thought they were merely establishing homesteads for their own children.

They were units of energy, helping to create the United States.

Those tiny creatures that work under the waters of the Pacific ocean, building up coral reefs, building each a little place for itself were, by combined efforts, building the beautiful islands of the Pacific.

As they worked, so we work, always for the future.

EVEN THE MOON WORKS

If the moon thinks at all, as she sails in silver majesty through this dark blue sky of evening, she probably thinks that she travels around the earth for her own delight. But divine wisdom through the power of gravitation has harnessed her to the oceans of the earth.

And as she travels, without knowing it, she creates tides that prevent the ocean becoming a stagnant disease-breeding pond and in time will supply power for men everywhere on earth.

Powerful men that money, millions, tens of millions, even hundreds of millions, Eastman, Duke, Carnegie, Rockefeller, Baker, perhaps don't realize that when they give money, they make their least important gifts to the people. The value of their own work far excels that of all the money they leave or give away. Their money is an unimportant by-product of their lives.

When John D. Rockefeller established the fact that competition is wasteful, and that organization on a big scale means economy and efficiency, he rendered a greater service to the people than in giving all his hundreds of millions.

When Mr. Eastman educated the traveling world to keep a record of things seen, and made it easy and inexpensive for mothers to keep a record of their children's growth, at the same time employing well-paid thousands, and building up a great city, he rendered his real service.

So with Mr. Duke. When he built his scores of power plants in the south, harnessing energy going to waste, providing work at home for thousands and building up the southern states to which he is attached by deep affection, he was doing more than merely giving away forty odd millions at one time.

It's a world of contrasts. You note the record of generous gifts and unselfish planning. You read that our two dirigibles, Los Angeles and Shenandoah are to be used by astronomers, studying eclipses and other cosmic phenomena, you say "we are gradually becoming a civilized race."

Next you read from William Ockert, aged 29, his brief complete statement: "My own brother tried to take my wife away from me, so I got a shotgun and let him have both barrels."

This reminds you that civilization thus far appears only in spots. But you know that it is growing, that in time changes all over the earth will be as great as the last few years in this marvelous region, where a great, beautiful city replaces what only yesterday was the sandy domain of the horned toad.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—Thoughts while strolling around New York: A gay supper club at midnight. Irving Berlin in a corner. As glum as an owl. Noisy irresponsible throngs overflowing the tiny dance floor. A poet dances with one arm in a sling. Pegasus with a broken wing.

Bandit waiters who insist on tips that rustle instead of tinkle. The hard faced floor manager. With "bouncers" in waiting. A stern British moralist looking on a bit contemptuously. Florence Walton and Leon Letrim dance. The odd acute glitter of colored lights.

Bacon and eggs—$1.50 an order. And a $3 cover charge. The jolting and rumbling of milk wagons outside. A group of chorus girls with a venerable high flying bachelor. Long Island ladies who have not lost their summer tan.

And they'll soon be off to Palm Beach to renew it. In my day they wore sunbonnets to keep it off. A millionaire's son who recently fell heir to millions. Looking bored. I got more of a kick than he out of my first pair of bicycle pants holders.

College boys with small rolls and big courage. And they must get back to New Haven in time for chapel. A few corks pop. Gingerale no doubt. They don't, by any chance, serve drinks in New York do they? A woman with a peacock headdress shot with jewels.

The last waltz. But the crowd stays on. The noisy roar at the entrance. Hat check girls exacting the final tribute. Old women selling frayed morning editions, chewing gum and flowers. First pink of early dawn.

Early workers throwing off sleep. A slight fog blows up from the harbor. Shuffling men with turned up collars and pulled down caps. The first group at the Help Wanted bulletin board in Times Square. Wish I'd gone to bed early.

New York's three tabloid newspapers—the Daily News, The Mirror and lately The Graphic which is published by Bernarr MacFadden, the physical culture expert, have provided jobs for many jobless newspapermen. Probably more work for Mr. Munsey in the offing.

One of the leading theatrical hits of the season is "What Price Glory?" written by Laurence Stallings, who lost a leg in Belleau Woods. He returned to New York and became a copy reader on the World. The play is said to be his own reactions to his adjustment to civil life after his return.

Newspapermen this season have led in writing the leading theatrical hits. Marc Connelly and George S. Kaufman, both newspapermen, are now on their fourth decisive hit. Twelve other productions that give promise of long runs are by Park Row scribes.

A rich New Yorker is said to have offered a million dollars to be relieved of gout. But health is one thing you cannot buy. It is a matter of history that the late J. Pierpont Morgan offered a million to the doctor who could partially arrest the affliction that disfigured his nose.

There is a bachelor on Madison avenue who has an 8-room apartment. He has been living in it for more than two years, but not once has anyone set their feet inside the place save the bachelor and his retinue of servants. To a reporter who interviewed him, he said: "I gave up one apartment because my hospitality resulted in many fine treasures being ruined. My new apartment is going to be my home and when I want to entertain I will do it in public places. It used to be men and women could drink a few cocktails and behave themselves, but not any more."

"But," interrupted a young negro who had been to college, "it wouldn't have done that, pastor. It would have been against the law of gravitation."

Haskin Letter

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN

THE ISLE OF PINES MYSTERY

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—What is the mysterious power or influence that has kept the United States senate from ratifying the famous Isle of Pines treaty for more than 20 years? Or is it possible that there is nothing at all mysterious about it and that the treaty has been held up in the ordinary legislative processes of the senate?

No prizes are being offered for the best answers to these questions, but a lot of people are asking the questions and would appreciate authoritative answers. They regard it as extraordinary, to say the least, that a treaty should hang fire in the senate for almost a quarter of a century, especially when the treaty has been reported favorably from time to time by the committee of foreign affairs and has had the backing of five presidents and every secretary of state since it was negotiated by the late John Hay.

As this is written the treaty is scheduled to be taken up by the senate at an early date, and it is possible that it will be disposed of promptly and definitely. However, senators who may know say there will be no hasty action by the senate, and judging by the record of the past that seems a safe prognostication.

The treaty is most frequently described as one that cedes the Isle of Pines to Cuba. That is an error. To cede, the United States would have to own or possess, and the island has been under the Cuban flag since May 30, 1902. In reality, the treaty is one to clear title, for by its terms this country "relinquishes in favor of the republic of Cuba all claim of title to the Island of Pines, which has been or may be made in virtue of articles I and II of the treaty of peace between the United States and Spain."

Furthermore, the treaty declares that "the relinquishment, on the part of the United States, of claim of title to the said Isle of Pines, is in consideration of the grants of coaling and naval stations in the Island of Cuba heretofore made to the United States of America by the republic of Cuba."

Thus the United States is in the somewhat embarrassing position of a debtor who does not pay his debts, although he is abundantly able to do so. We accepted something extremely valuable and highly desirable from Cuba, and in turn agreed to give Cuba something that really was already hers and then we failed to make good our agreement. We have refused steadfastly to yield the "quid" for the "quo."

OTHER COUNTRIES EXCITED

Naturally Cuba is a bit "het up" over the matter, and it is said that other Latin-America countries are almost equally excited about it, feeling that since the United States has broken faith with Cuba other covenants may be treated as scraps of paper. That is not quite fair, however, for the United States has deprived Cuba of nothing of actual value. Cuba has enjoyed all the benefits there may be in possessing and governing the Isle of Pines. The republic isn't even in the position of a man who wants to clear the title of a piece of real estate in order to sell it, for the Isle of Pines isn't for sale, and never will be.

The record in this matter is an interesting one. By the treaty of peace Spain relinquished all claim of sovereignty over and title to Cuba, with the understanding that it was to be, at the proper time, turned over to the government and control of its own people. The Isle of Pines, up to that time, had always been regarded as a part of Cuba.

However, when congress adopted the Platt amendment, which was to enable the Cubans to paddle their own canoe, the provision was incorporated in it that "the Isle of Pines shall be omitted from the proposed constitutional boundaries of Cuba, the title thereto being left to future adjustment by treaty."

In 1903 two treaties were negotiated with Cuba—one by which the coaling and naval stations at Guantanamo and Bahia Honda were leased to the United States, and the other what was in effect a quit claim deed to the Isle of Pines. The first was ratified by the senate, but the second failed ratification. March 2, 1904, a second treaty relinquishing claim to title to the Isle of Pines was negotiated and it is the one now pending. It was first reported favorably from the foreign affairs committee by the late Senator Foraker, of Ohio, in February, 1907. Three times it has been sent back to the committee.

Meanwhile a considerable number of Americans, perhaps, 10,000 in all, purchased land in the Isle of Pines, and several hundred of them have gone there to live. They claim that they acquired the property under the representation that the island belonged to the United States, and they have always insisted that the United States should assert sovereignty rather than relinquish claim to title.

TWO MIGHTY SENATORS

One explanation of the strange procedure of the senate with respect to the treaty is that a large number of these investors were citizens of Ohio and Alabama, and have been able to enlist the support of the senators from those states. When the senate has been confronted with the spectacle of two of its members of opposite political faith agreeing upon anything it has invariably yielded to their insistence. Senator Willis and Senator Heflin are the two solons said to have teamed up most effectively in staving off favorable action on the Isle of Pines covenant.

However, this explanation is not accepted unreservedly by persons well informed about the senate. It is true that Senators Willis and Heflin could probably make more noise saying "no" than all the rest of the senate could make saying "aye," but that doesn't constitute them a majority of the upper house of congress. And it is a bit difficult to understand why a combination of a Republican and a Democrat should have any particular bearing upon the determination of a non-partisan question, or how any two senators, or any minority group of senators can defeat the will of the committee on foreign affairs and the administration as represented by the president and the secretary of state.

And, just to add to the mystery about this Isle of Pines business, it may be pointed out that there is nothing to be gained by deferring action on the treaty or defeating ratification. In 1905 Elihu Root, as secretary of state, said he had no doubt that the island was a part of Cuba, and that it was not and never had been territory of the United States, and then he added:

"Nor would the rejection of the pending treaty put an end to the control of Cuba over the island. A treaty directly contrary to the one now pending would be necessary to do that, and there is not the slightest prospect of such treaty being made. You may be quite sure that Cuba will never consent to give up the Isle of Pines and the United States will never try to compel her to give it up against her will."

Two years after Mr. Root expressed that opinion the supreme court decided in a customs case that the island was a part of Cuba and that its de facto government was that of Cuba.

In the face of all this it is amazing not only that opposition to the treaty should be so effective, but that there should be any opposition at all. As Captain Eibridge Colby says, "The real issue is not whether Cuba owns it (the island), but whether it is not an area like this is worth the creation of international friction. We cannot presume to seize and place under our flag every piece of real estate held or there throughout the world which happens to be in American hands. It is furthermore absolutely certain that whatever prospects of strategic value or naval operations the Isle of Pines may have had, it has practically none now.

Farmers in northern New York state have taken up arms against a vicious deer, which kills horses. Hadn't they better protect their dogs from the rabbits, too?

The value of their own work far excels that of all the money they leave or give away. Their money is an unimportant by-product of their lives.

When John D. Rockefeller established the fact that competition is wasteful, and that organization on a big scale means economy and efficiency, he rendered a greater service to the people than in giving all his hundreds of millions.

When Mr. Eastman educated the traveling world to keep a record of things seen, and made it easy and inexpensive for mothers to keep a record of their children's growth, at the same time employing well-paid thousands, and building up a great city, he rendered his real service.

So with Mr. Duke. When he built his scores of power plants in the south, harnessing energy going to waste, providing work at home for thousands and building up the southern states to which he is attached by deep affection, he was doing more than merely giving away forty odd millions at one time.

It's a world of contrasts. You note the record of generous gifts and unselfish planning. You read that our two dirigibles, Los Angeles and Shenandoah are to be used by astronomers, studying eclipses and other cosmic phenomena, you say "we are gradually becoming a civilized race."

Next you read from William Ockert, aged 29, his brief complete statement: "My own brother tried to take my wife away from me, so I got a shotgun and let him have both barrels."

This reminds you that civilization thus far appears only in spots. But you know that it is growing, that in time changes all over the earth will be as great as the last few years in this marvelous region, where a great, beautiful city replaces what only yesterday was the sandy domain of the horned toad.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—Thoughts while strolling around New York: A gay supper club at midnight. Irving Berlin in a corner. As glum as an owl. Noisy irresponsible throngs overflowing the tiny dance floor. A poet dances with one arm in a sling. Pegasus with a broken wing.

Bandit waiters who insist on tips that rustle instead of tinkle. The hard faced floor manager. With "bouncers" in waiting. A stern British moralist looking on a bit contemptuously. Florence Walton and Leon Letrim dance. The odd acute glitter of colored lights.

Bacon and eggs—$1.50 an order. And a $3 cover charge. The jolting and rumbling of milk wagons outside. A group of chorus girls with a venerable high flying bachelor. Long Island ladies who have not lost their summer tan.

And they'll soon be off to Palm Beach to renew it. In my day they wore sunbonnets to keep it off. A millionaire's son who recently fell heir to millions. Looking bored. I got more of a kick than he out of my first pair of bicycle pants holders.

College boys with small rolls and big courage. And they must get back to New Haven in time for chapel. A few corks pop. Gingerale no doubt. They don't, by any chance, serve drinks in New York do they? A woman with a peacock headdress shot with jewels.

The last waltz. But the crowd stays on. The noisy roar at the entrance. Hat check girls exacting the final tribute. Old women selling frayed morning editions, chewing gum and flowers. First pink of early dawn.

Early workers throwing off sleep. A slight fog blows up from the harbor. Shuffling men with turned up collars and pulled down caps. The first group at the Help Wanted bulletin board in Times Square. Wish I'd gone to bed early.

New York's three tabloid newspapers—the Daily News, The Mirror and lately The Graphic which is published by Bernarr MacFadden, the physical culture expert, have provided jobs for many jobless newspapermen. Probably more work for Mr. Munsey in the offing.

One of the leading theatrical hits of the season is "What Price Glory?" written by Laurence Stallings, who lost a leg in Belleau Woods. He returned to New York and became a copy reader on the World. The play is said to be his own reactions to his adjustment to civil life after his return.

Newspapermen this season have led in writing the leading theatrical hits. Marc Connelly and George S. Kaufman, both newspapermen, are now on their fourth decisive hit. Twelve other productions that give promise of long runs are by Park Row scribes.

A rich New Yorker is said to have offered a million dollars to be relieved of gout. But health is one thing you cannot buy. It is a matter of history that the late J. Pierpont Morgan offered a million to the doctor who could partially arrest the affliction that disfigured his nose.

There is a bachelor on Madison avenue who has an 8-room apartment. He has been living in it for more than two years, but not once has anyone set their feet inside the place save the bachelor and his retinue of servants. To a reporter who interviewed him, he said: "I gave up one apartment because my hospitality resulted in many fine treasures being ruined. My new apartment is going to be my home and when I want to entertain I will do it in public places. It used to be men and women could drink a few cocktails and behave themselves, but not any more."

At a prayer meeting in a negro church the pastor was explaining the passage which tells of the passing of the children of Israel through the Red Sea.

"It is all very simple," he said. "You know that water generally flows down hill, but in this yere instance things was jus' reversed. The water, instead of flowin' down hill, done suddenly flow up hill, leabin' the bottom of the sea all dry, so that all the chidren ob Israel jus' passes ober without eben wettin' their feet. Then—"

"But," interrupted a young negro who had been to college, "it wouldn't have done that, pastor. It would have been against the law of gravitation."

"You jest set down, sah," answered the pastor. "You don't know what you are talkin' about. This all happened three thousand years 'before the law of gravitation done been discovered."

Haskin Letter

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN

THE ISLE OF PINES MYSTERY

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—What is the mysterious power or influence that has kept the United States senate from ratifying the famous Isle of Pines treaty for more than 20 years? Or is it possible that there is nothing at all mysterious about it and that the treaty has been held up in the ordinary legislative processes of the senate?

No prizes are being offered for the best answers to these questions, but a lot of people are asking the questions and would appreciate authoritative answers. They regard it as extraordinary, to say the least, that a treaty should hang fire in the senate for almost a quarter of a century, especially when the treaty has been reported favorably from time to time by the committee of foreign affairs and has had the backing of five presidents and every secretary of state since it was negotiated by the late John Hay.

As this is written the treaty is scheduled to be taken up by the senate at an early date, and it is possible that it will be disposed of promptly and definitely. However, senators who may know say there will be no hasty action by the senate, and judging by the record of the past that seems a safe prognostication.

The treaty is most frequently described as one that cedes the Isle of Pines to Cuba. That is an error. To cede, the United States would have to own or possess, and the island has been under the Cuban flag since May 30, 1902. In reality, the treaty is one to clear title, for by its terms this country "relinquishes in favor of the republic of Cuba all claim of title to the Island of Pines, which has been or may be made in virtue of articles I and II of the treaty of peace between the United States and Spain."

Furthermore, the treaty declares that "the relinquishment, on the part of the United States, of claim of title to the said Isle of Pines, is in consideration of the grants of coaling and naval stations in the Island of Cuba heretofore made to the United States of America by the republic of Cuba."

Thus the United States is in the somewhat embarrassing position of a debtor who does not pay his debts, although he is abundantly able to do so. We accepted something extremely valuable and highly desirable from Cuba, and in turn agreed to give Cuba something that really was already hers, and then we failed to make good our agreement. We have refused steadfastly to yield the "quid" for the "quo."

OTHER COUNTRIES EXCITED

Naturally Cuba is a bit "het up" over the matter, and it is said that other Latin-America countries are almost equally excited about it, feeling that since the United States has broken faith with Cuba other covenants may be treated as scraps of paper. That is not quite fair, however, for the United States has deprived Cuba of nothing of actual value. Cuba has enjoyed all the benefits there may be in possessing and governing the Isle of Pines. The republic isn't even in the position of a man who wants to clear the title of a piece of real estate in order to sell it, for the Isle of Pines isn't for sale, and never will be.

The record in this matter is an interesting one. By the treaty of peace Spain relinquished all claim of sovereignty over and title to Cuba, with the understanding that it was to be, at the proper time, turned over to the government and control of its own people. The Isle of Pines, up to that time, had always been regarded as a part of Cuba.

However, when congress adopted the Platt amendment, which was to enable the Cubans to paddle their own canoe, the provision was incorporated in it that "the Isle of Pines shall be omitted from the proposed constitutional boundaries of Cuba, the title thereto being left to future adjustment by treaty."

In 1903 two treaties were negotiated with Cuba—one by which the coaling and naval stations at Guantanamo and Bahia Honda were leased to the United States, and the other what was in effect a quit claim deed to the Isle of Pines. The first was ratified by the senate, but the second failed ratification. March 2, 1904, a second treaty relinquishing claim to title to the Isle of Pines was negotiated, and it is the one now pending. It was first reported favorably from the foreign affairs committee by the late Senator Foraker, of Ohio, in February, 1906. Three times it has been sent back to the committee.

Meanwhile a considerable number of Americans, perhaps, 10,000 in all, purchased land in the Isle of Pines, and several hundred of them have gone there to live. They claim that they acquired the property under the representation that the island belonged to the United States, and they have always insisted that the United States should assert sovereignty rather than relinquish claim to title.

TWO MIGHTY SENATORS

One explanation of the strange procedure in the senate with respect to the treaty is that a large number of these investors were citizens of Ohio and Alabama, and have been able to enlist the support of the senators from those states. When the senate has been confronted with the spectacle of two of its members of opposite political faith agreeing upon anything it has invariably yielded to their instance. Senator Willis and Senator Heflin are the two solons said to have teamed up most effectively in staving off favorable action on the Isle of Pines covenant.

However, this explanation is not accepted unreservedly by persons well informed about the senate. It is true that Senators Willis and Heflin could probably make more noise saying "no" than all the rest of the senate could make saying "aye," but that doesn't constitute them a majority of the upper house of congress. And it is a bit difficult to understand why a combination of a Republican and a Democrat should have any particular bearing upon the determination of a non-partisan question, or how any two senators, or any minority group of senators, can defeat the will of the committee on foreign affairs and the administration as represented by the president and the secretary of state.

And, just to add to the mystery about this Isle of Pines business, it may be pointed out that there's nothing to be gained by deferring action on the treaty or defeating ratification. In 1905 Elihu Root, as secretary of state, said he had no doubt that the island was a part of Cuba, and that it was not and never had been territory of the United States, and then he added:

"Nor would the rejection of the pending treaty put an end to the control of Cuba over the island. A treaty directly contrary to the one now pending would be necessary to do that, and there is not the slightest prospect of such treaty being made. You may be quite sure that Cuba will never consent to give up the Isle of Pines and the United States will never try to compel her to give it up against her will."

Two years after Mr. Root expressed that opinion the supreme court decided in a customs case that the island was a part of Cuba and that its de facto government was that of Cuba.

In the face of all this it is amazing not only that opposition to the treaty should be so effective, but that there should be any opposition at all. As Captain Eibridge Colby says, "The real issue is not whether Cuba owns it (the island), but whether or not an area like this is worth the creation of international friction. We cannot presume to seize and place under our flag every piece of real estate here or there throughout the world which happens to be in American hands. It is furthermore absolutely certain that whatever prospects of strategic value for naval operations the Isle of Pines may have had, it has practically none now.

Farmers in northern New York state have taken up arms against a vicious deer, which kills horses. Hadn't they better protect their dogs from the rabbits, too?

Patrick McGovern Gets $14,300,000 Job in Philadelphia.

HE IS EX-MINER

Ditch Digger, But Not Engineer by Education.

PHILADELPHIA — Patrick McGovern, New York contractor, has been awarded the contract for construction work on the second section of the Broad street subway at an outside cost limit of $14,300,000. It took only four days to wind up the contract.

In 1891 McGovern arrived in Boston from County Cavan, Ireland, a "greenhorn" with only a few dollars in his pockets. He was what was called a "fine broth of a boy, a magnificent physical specimen and able to 'lick his weight in wildcats.'"

Today he has not lost a whit of this physical vigor. He took a job swinging a pick and shovel, this being the handiest thing to do at that time.

Filled with the spirit of adventure young McGovern started for Alaska in 1894 in quest of gold. He did not locate any great treasure, but had some wonderful experiences, which satisfied his love for life in the open and taught him the great lesson of self dependence.

Returning to Boston, McGovern set up business in a small way. His office and headquarters was a small tool shed with an oil lamp.

Today he has a magnificent suite of offices on the top floor of a towering office building overlooking the city and many of its great public works, which he has had a hand in caring out. Visible from these windows is the stretch of the Rockaway causeway, a gleaming ribbon of cement.

The contractor who originally undertook the causeway job sunk a cold million dollars and then gave it up. The obstacles were too great to overcome.

The engineers in despair turned to Mr. McGovern. He went at the job with his characteristic vigor and carried it through to a finish.

Although lacking any technical education, Mr. Govern is a born engineer. At least this was the estimate of C. M. Holland, engineer of the new Hudson River tubes, who died recently, a Massachusetts boy from the town of Somerset and one of the great engineers of his time.

Mr. Holland and Mr. McGovern were close friends and had been associated on many difficult engineering problems. Mr. Holland conceived and Mr. McGovern carried out these works.

Mr. McGovern got his early experience in tunnel building in Boston, which was the first city in the country to undertake underground transportation. He had some part of the work on the East Boston, Washington street and Beacon Hill tunnels. This experience proved valuable in New York when he took up the completion of the Fourteenth street tunnel after this, too, had been abandoned by the original contractors.

Among other big projects that he has carried out are the Champlain Canal, the army base at Boston, the Lexington avenue subway in New York and the water system at Montreal connecting the city and the Lachine rapids.

Mr. McGovern has an international reputation as a builder and he is consulted by engineers and construction boards all over the world. He is the president of the Contractors' Association of New York, one of the most powerful business organizations in the country.

ONCE WIELDED PICK; NOW HE DIGS SUBWAYS

Patrick McGovern Gets $14,300,000 Job in Philadelphia.

HE IS EX-MINER

Ditch Digger, But Not Engineer by Education.

PHILADELPHIA — Patrick McGovern, New York contractor, has been awarded the contract for construction work on the second section of the Broad street subway at an outside cost limit of $14,300,000. It took only four days to wind up the contract.

In 1891 McGovern arrived in Boston from County Cavan, Ireland, a "greenhorn" with only a few dollars in his pockets. He was what was called a "fine broth of a boy, a magnificent physical specimen and able to 'lick his weight in wildcats.'"

Today he has not lost a whit of this physical vigor. He took a job swinging a pick and shovel, this being the handiest thing to do at that time.

Filled with the spirit of adventure young McGovern started for Alaska in 1894 in quest of gold. He did not locate any great treasure, but had some wonderful experiences, which satisfied his love for life in the open and taught him the great lesson of self dependence.

Returning to Boston, McGovern set up business in a small way. His office and headquarters was a small tool shed with an oil lamp.

Today he has a magnificent suite of offices on the top floor of a towering office building overlooking the city and many of its great public works, which he has had a hand in caring out. Visible from these windows is the stretch of the Rockaway causeway, a gleaming ribbon of cement.

The contractor who originally undertook the causeway job sunk a cold million dollars and then gave it up. The obstacles were too great to overcome.

The engineers in despair turned to Mr. McGovern. He went at the job with his characteristic vigor and carried it through to a finish.

Although lacking any technical education, Mr. Govern is a born engineer. At least this was the estimate of C. M. Holland, engineer of the new Hudson River tubes, who died recently, a Massachusetts boy from the town of Somerset and one of the great engineers of his time.

Mr. Holland and Mr. McGovern were close friends and had been associated on many difficult engineering problems. Mr. Holland conceived and Mr. McGovern carried out these works.

Mr. McGovern got his early experience in tunnel building in Boston, which was the first city in the country to undertake underground transportation. He had some part of the work on the East Boston, Washington street and Beacon Hill tunnels. This experience proved valuable in New York when he took up the completion of the Fourteenth street tunnel after this, too, had been abandoned by the original contractors.

Among other big projects that he has carried out are the Champlain Canal, the army base at Boston, the Lexington avenue subway in New York and the water system at Montreal connecting the city and the Lachine rapids.

Mr. McGovern has an international reputation as a builder and he is consulted by engineers and construction boards all over the world. He is the president of the Contractors' Association of New York, one of the most powerful business organizations in the country.

Ornate Visiting Cards Once Used.

Less than 200 years ago it was a fad in France to use playing cards across which a signature was scrawled, for visiting cards. Later cards engraved with pictures took their place and then came the elegant flourishing of Spencerian penmanship, since which time th eneatly engraved card of today, with little or nothing on it but the name, has become firmly implanted in the conventions of the times.

Dangerous Love

A bewitchingly beautiful girl, Anna had no end of admirers, but she did not dream she could fall in love with another woman's husband—her sister's husband least of all. Yet there came a time when, living under the same roof with them, she found herself drifting into an affair that taxed her powers of resistance to the limit.

How, with gradually weakening strength, she fought against this growing passion, and the stress of circumstances that forced matters to a climax, is a drama of human emotions that will hold you enthralled. Anna tells her story under the title of "A Soul for Sale"—one of the many remarkable features in the January True Story Magazine. Buy it at any newsstand today.

Eyesight of English Fast Deteriorating; Many Wear Glasses

LONDON.—The eyesight of the English as a nation is deteriorating, if recent figures of the number of elementary school children treated for spectacles can be taken as a criterion.

Of less than a million children attending these schools, 23,000 were found to have weak eyesight.

For the past few years one in every five children has been found to possess defective eyesight. Specialists predict that of future generations possibly one in every four persons will wear spectacles.

Dangerous Love

A bewitchingly beautiful girl, Anna had no end of admirers, but she did not dream she could fall in love with another woman's husband—her sister's husband least of all. Yet there came a time when, living under the same roof with them, she found herself drifting into an affair that taxed her powers of resistance to the limit.

How, with gradually weakening strength, she fought against this growing passion, and the stress of circumstances that forced matters to a climax, is a drama of human emotions that will hold you enthralled. Anna tells her story under the title of "A Soul for Sale"—one of the many remarkable features in the January True Story Magazine. Buy it at any newsstand today.

After easing the pain, incident to slight bruises, by giving the lad twenty-five cents, Chief Weaner took him home.

Don't try to hide skin trouble—
Get rid of it!

NO amount of cosmetics can conceal an ugly skin. They only fill in the pores and make the condition worse. Resinol Soap cleanses the pores, giving them a chance to breathe and throw off clogging impurities—the first step in overcoming skin defects.

A touch of Resinol Ointment for blotches and inflamed spots, relieves the soreness and reduces the angry look. The soothing, healing medication in the Resinol products makes it so easy to get rid of excessive oiliness, blackheads, blotches, redness, etc., why waste time trying to hide them.

If you eat bran it is because you seek relief from constipation and toxic poisoning!

To get the relief your physician will tell you that bran will give—you must be certain to get Kellogg's, BECAUSE it is ALL BRAN! That is the kind your physician intends you to eat.

You only delay positive relief when you eat foods with a partial bran content, because they can only help you in proportion to the amount of bran they contain! Every day's delay lets your condition become worse! Pills and cathartics can only aggravate distressing conditions. Part bran foods cannot permanently help you! They do not have the necessary bulk or roughage that makes ALL BRAN positive in its mechanical action! That is why Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is a necessity!

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is GUARANTEED to give you permanent relief if you will eat two tablespoonfuls each day, or as much with each meal in chronic cases!

Kellogg's
Use the original BRAN—ready to eat

Bran facts!
Set yourself straight on these

If you eat bran it is because you seek relief from constipation and toxic poisoning!

To get the relief your physician will tell you that bran will give—you must be certain to get Kellogg's, BECAUSE it is ALL BRAN! That is the kind your physician intends you to eat.

You only delay positive relief when you eat foods with a partial bran content, because they can only help you in proportion to the amount of bran they contain! You haven't time to waste on 25 per cent or 50 per cent relief when you know that Kellogg's will give you 100 per cent relief BECAUSE IT IS ALL BRAN!

Every day's delay lets your condition become worse! Pills and cathartics can only aggravate distressing conditions. Part bran foods cannot permanently help you! They do not have the necessary bulk or roughage that makes ALL BRAN positive in its mechanical action! That is why Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is a necessity!

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is GUARANTEED to give you permanent relief if you will eat two tablespoonfuls each day, or as much with each meal in chronic cases!

If you would realize how delicious Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is—cooked, krumbled and ready to eat—and what it means to your health—you would not lose a minute starting to eat it! All grocers sell Kellogg's ALL-BRAN in the Red and Green package.

Kellogg's

the original Bran—ready to eat

Made by the originators of Kellogg's

If you eat bran it is because you seek relief from constipation and toxic poisoning!

To get the relief your physician will tell you that bran will give—you must be certain to get Kellogg's, BECAUSE it is ALL BRAN! That is the kind your physician intends you to eat.

You only delay positive relief when you eat foods with a partial bran content, because they can only help you in proportion to the amount of bran they contain! You haven't time to waste on 25 per cent or 50 per cent relief when you know that Kellogg's will give you 100 per cent relief BECAUSE IT IS ALL BRAN!

Every day's delay lets your condition become worse! Pills and cathartics can only aggravate distressing conditions. Part bran foods cannot permanently help you! They do not have the necessary bulk or roughage that makes ALL BRAN positive in its mechanical action! That is why Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is a necessity!

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is GUARANTEED to give you permanent relief if you will eat two tablespoonfuls each day, or as much with each meal in chronic cases!

If you would realize how delicious Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is—cooked, krumbled and ready to eat—and what it means to your health—you would not lose a minute starting to eat it! All grocers sell Kellogg's ALL-BRAN in the Red and Green package.

Set yourself straight on these

They were Wisconsin No. 7, White Cap, Yellow Dent, Bailey, Longfellow, Northwestern Dent, Quebec No. 28 and Canada Yellow. The yields ranged from 15½ tons to the acre of the Wisconsin variety to 24½ tons of Longfellow.

UNFILLED TONNAGE INCREASE HERE

An increase of 506,699 tons in unfilled tonnage last month has been reported by the United States Steel Corporation, of which the American Sheet & Tin Plate plant here is a subsidiary

The report shows the largest gain since September, 1922, when an increase of more than 600,000 tons was reported over the preceding month.

Although no predictions for any length of time into the future can be made by officials of the local mill, the general outlook is decidedly better.

ELKS ARE READY FOR SANTA JOBS

The coupons, according to announcement by Howard Donnelly and John Fickes, in charge of the Elks' Christmas treat this year, will end tomorrow. All coupons bearing names of children are to be in the hands of Donnelly or Fickes by Sunday, December 14.

A Christmas tree, with decorations in abundance, and a "Santa Claus" will be features of the treat program to be put on by the lodge on Christmas morning in the home in Riverside avenue and Eighth street .

Hawaiian Bandsmen Raising Sick Fund To Benefit Members

HONOLULU.—Honolulu's famous Hawaiian band, which has been playing boats in and out of this port for thirty years, went down to the dock to bid a musical farewell to the pleasure yacht Kaimiloa (M. R. Kellum, owner), as she started for a Winter's cruise in the South Seas. Touched by the strains of "Aloha Oe," Kellum leaned over the rail as the lines were being cast off and handed a check for $500 to Major Kealakaki, bandmaster. Kealakai has placed the money in a trust company's care, and the Honolulu Ad Club has started a campaign to increase the fund to an amount sufficient to take care of sick or disabled bandsmen."

Silence Wins Travel Trip.

Because Guen Gondow, a well known actor of Sofia, who had come upon hard times since the war, was able to keep from talking for one month, he has won a wager that will enable him to spend a year in travel. His bemoaning his poverty so irked M. Guergieff, a wealthy merchant, that he offered the actor a year's trip if he would hold his tongue a month. He did, though tempters sought to make him speak.

Go west! Go west!

Hawaiian Bandsmen Raising Sick Fund To Benefit Members

HONOLULU.—Honolulu's famous Hawaiian band, which has been playing boats in and out of this port for thirty years, went down to the dock to bid a musical farewell to the pleasure yacht Kaimiloa (M. R. Kellum, owner), as she started for a Winter's cruise in the South Seas. Touched by the strains of "Aloha Oe," Kellum leaned over the rail as the lines were being cast off and handed a check for $500 to Major Kealakaki, bandmaster. Kealakai has placed the money in a trust company's care, and the Honolulu Ad Club has started a campaign to increase the fund to an amount sufficient to take care of sick or disabled bandsmen."

Silence Wins Travel Trip.

Because Guen Gondow, a well known actor of Sofia, who had come upon hard times since the war, was able to keep from talking for one month, he has won a wager that will enable him to spend a year in travel. His bemoaning his poverty so irked M. Guergieff, a wealthy merchant, that he offered the actor a year's trip if he would hold his tongue a month. He did, though tempters sought to make him speak.

HEART AND HOME PROBLEMS

BY MRS. ELIZABETH A. THOMPSON

Her Beau Drinks.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: The boy that I go with called me up one night and said he would not be able to see me because he had to go away on business. When he came he told me that he had told a lie. He said that he was out on a drunk and was afraid he would not be over it in time. He knew that I am opposed to his drinking. When I say anything about quitting he begs of me to let him come. I cannot have any one that drinks hanging around me. Mother has found it out and is dreadfully put out about it. He is a wild boy but since he has been coming to see me he says himself that he has made a big change. He does anything for me that I ask him but to quit drinking. His father and mother died when he was young. He says that because he hasn't any mother he doesn't care about anything. Please tell me how to ask him to stop drinking. If he does not, shall I quit him? I hate dreadfully to give him up. I have been with so many fellows already and could not get along with them. BLUE EYES.

You are lavishing your love on a young man who is not worthy of it because his ideals are low and his character weak. He seems to think it is sporty to drink and pretends to do it because he has not the strengthening influence of his mother. Surely you can see that if he amounted to anything he would want to be of good character out of respect for his mother's memory.

My advice is to tell the young man you will not go with him as long as he drinks, but if you find he prefers drink to your company you are going to give him up.

What Should She Ask.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl of 20 and have been going with a young man of 25 for the past three months. I love him dearly and I am sure he loves me. He has proposed to me and I would like to know some of the questions I should ask him before we engage ourselves. I realize these questions differ somewhat in each case, but I am sure you will be able to give me some advice and I will be very grateful for it. Do you think the time is too short for us to know each other sufficiently? I am not a girl who can find out about other people's character, but every one to whom I have spoken thus far seems to think very highly of him. DAISY.

It is not necessary for a girl to ask questions. She should, however, feel sure in her own mind that she has chosen a man of good character and good health, who will be a faithful worker and kind husband. She should also feel sure that she loves him enough to do her part to make him happy. Ask what your heart prompts you to ask.

Miss Hazel H.: I do not conduct any agency through which it is possible for young men and young women to meet and therefore do not expect me to give out your address to young men correspondents. Also it would be contrary to the policy of this column to furnish you with the addresses of the young men who write to me.

A Shadowy Past.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a lady 29 years old. I was married last summer to a man four years younger whom I have known for six years and had gone with occasionally until just before we were married. I have found out since that he was untrue to me before our marriage. He spent money on a married woman and has taken her many places. This I found to be absolutely true as he even admitted some of the things. He has known her for some years also. He says he likes me and that he was ashamed to turn me down after I spent my best years with him. Do you think he loves her better? She is very pretty while I am plain. I have a good paying position which he likes about me. This lady has been married twice. He was the cause of the first separation and then came between her and her second husband. But their romance didn't last as long as the first. Do you think if a man loved his intended bride he would take another man's wife to amusements and make love to her? Don't you think even if we continued living together and had children his thoughts would turn to her occasionally, especially if he were to meet her on the street? This troubles me as he cannot be trusted alone. He cannot resist temptations, especially in the form of pretty faces. Could I have our marriage annulled? Or would I have to apply for a divorce? YOURS TRULY.

Since your husband's faithlessness occurred before you were married try to put the matter out of your mind. Of course it is disquieting to know that he went with the other woman to the extent of causing separation from her two husbands but perhaps his infatuation is ended and will not cause trouble again. At least do ont worry about it until he shows signs of renewed interest. Don't permit yourself to feel plainer and less attractive. You are the woman your husband chose to marry. There was the period between her marriages when she was free to go to him, you know. Love your husband as if nothing had happened and expect love and companionship from him. If he has lost interest in the other woman now it will mean nothing to him to pass her on the street. You could not have your marriage annulled, and you could not get a divorce on the grounds of faithlessness before marriage.

Afraid of Mice? Women Fondle 'em As Pets in London

LONDON — The age-old illusion that women hate and are afraid of mice was dispelled at the recent Crystal Palace Animal Show.

Three hundred and fifty women entered pedigree mice for the show, and it was a common sight during the course of the show to see the mice's proud owners fondling them in their hands and allowing them to run up their arms.

According to the catalogue, one mouse shown, only eight weeks old, was priced at $500, but it was explained that this substantial figure was only put on because the woman owner would not part with her pet for any price.

Statistics Show 2,500 African Lions Owned in America

CHICAGO.—How many African lions are in the United States? The plan of the Pacific Coast Sportsmen's club, recently incorporated, to stock a hunting preserve in California with lions and tigers and other game, has given the question a certain interest. "It will doubtless surprise most people to know that, according to the most reliable estimate, there are about 2,500 lions in this country," said an old-time animal man connected with the club. "They are distributed among zoological gardens, circus menageries and professional animal dealers. If all lions were exterminated in Africa the United States has enough lions to restock Africa in a few decades."

HEART AND HOME PROBLEMS

BY MRS. ELIZABETH THOMPSON

Her Beau Drinks.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: The boy that I go with called me up one night and said he would not be able to see me because he had to go away on business. When he came he told me that he had told a lie. He said that he was out on a drunk and was afraid he would not be over it in time. He knew that I am opposed to his drinking. When I say anything about quitting he begs of me to let him come. I cannot have any one that drinks hanging around me. Mother has found it out and is dreadfully put out about it. He is a wild boy but since he has been coming to see me he says himself that he has made a big change. He does anything for me that I ask him but to quit drinking. His father and mother died when he was young. He says that because he hasn't any mother he doesn't care about anything. Please tell me how to ask him to stop drinking. If he does not, shall I quit him? I hate dreadfully to give him up. I have been with so many fellows already and could not get along with them. BLUE EYES.

You are lavishing your love on a young man who is not worthy of it because his ideals are low and his character weak. He seems to think it is sporty to drink and pretends to do it because he has not the strengthening influence of his mother. Surely you can see that if he amounted to anything he would want to be of good character out of respect for his mother's memory.

My advice is to tell the young man you will not go with him as long as he drinks, but if you find he prefers drink to your company you are going to give him up.

What Should She Ask.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl of 20 and have been going with a young man of 25 for the past three months. I love him dearly and I am sure he loves me. He has proposed to me and I would like to know some of the questions I should ask him before we engage ourselves. I realize these questions differ somewhat in each case, but I am sure you will be able to give me some advice and I will be very grateful for it. Do you think the time is too short for us to know each other sufficiently? I am not a girl who can find out about other people's character, but every one to whom I have spoken thus far seems to think very highly of him. DAISY.

It is not necessary for a girl to ask questions. She should, however, feel sure in her own mind that she has chosen a man of good character and good health, who will be a faithful worker and kind husband. She should also feel sure that she loves him enough to do her part to make him happy. Ask what your heart prompts you to ask.

Miss Hazel H.: I do not conduct any agency through which it is possible for young men and young women to meet and therefore do not expect me to give out your address to young men correspondents. Also it would be contrary to the policy of this column to furnish you with the addresses of the young men who write to me.

A Shadowy Past.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a lady 29 years old. I was married last summer to a man four years younger whom I have known for six years and had gone with occasionally until just before we were married. I have found out since that he was untrue to me before our marriage. He spent money on a married woman and has taken her many places. This I found to be absolutely true as he even admitted some of the things. He has known her for some years also. He says he likes me and that he was ashamed to turn me down after I spent my best years with him. Do you think he loves her better? She is very pretty while I am plain. I have a good paying position which he likes about me. This lady has been married twice. He was the cause of the first separation and then came between her and her second husband. But their romance didn't last as long as the first. Do you think if a man loved his intended bride he would take another man's wife to amusements and make love to her? Don't you think even if we continued living together and had children his thoughts would turn to her occasionally, especially if he were to meet her on the street? This troubles me as he cannot be trusted alone. He cannot resist temptations, especially in the form of pretty faces. Could I have our marriage annulled? Or would I have to apply for a divorce? YOURS TRULY.

Since your husband's faithlessness occurred before you were married try to put the matter out of your mind. Of course it is disquieting to know that he went with the other woman to the extent of causing separation from her two husbands but perhaps his infatuation is ended and will not cause trouble again. At least do ont worry about it until he shows signs of renewed interest. Don't permit yourself to feel plainer and less attractive. You are the woman your husband chose to marry. There was the period between her marriages when she was free to go to him, you know. Love your husband as if nothing had happened and expect love and companionship from him. If he has lost interest in the other woman now it will mean nothing to him to pass her on the street. You could not have your marriage annulled, and you could not get a divorce on the grounds of faithlessness before marriage.

Afraid of Mice? Women Fondle 'em As Pets in London

LONDON — The age-old illusion that women hate and are afraid of mice was dispelled at the recent Crystal Palace Animal Show.

Three hundred and fifty women entered pedigree mice for the show, and it was a common sight during the course of the show to see the mice's proud owners fondling them in their hands and allowing them to run up their arms.

According to the catalogue, one mouse shown, only eight weeks old, was priced at $500, but it was explained that this substantial figure was only put on because the woman owner would not part with her pet for any price.

1,000,000 American Children at Work Says Lodge Leader

CHICAGO.—One million children having their childhood and all their future usefulness away and 200,000 children coming before courts each year, dependent and delinquent—these are the responsibility of every thinking woman in the United States according to Miss Mary L. Downes, High Chief Ranger of the Women's Catholic Order of Foresters.

"The appeal of the 1,000,000 little wage slaves," Miss Downes said in a speech here, "has aroused the interest of the 70,000 members of the Women's Catholic Order of Foresters, and in all the thirty-two States in which we have courts these women will ask their Legislatures to ratify the Child Labor Amendment to the Constitution."

"There's a difference in bread." Always ask for BETSY ROSS by name.

Hebrides Nuptials Rough.

Women of the Namba tribe of Malekula, an island of the New Hebrides group, have a rough time of it when they are courted and married. The woman is not recognized in marriage until the bridegroom has knocked out two fo her front teeth. This evidence of marriage takes the place of the wedding ring in most other lands. This prevents any attempt on her part to pass herself off as a single woman.

MOTHERS OF SKINNY, FRAIL KIDDIES NEED WORRY NO MORE

Improved Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites Tablets Guaranteed to Build Strong, Sturdy and Healthy Children.

Thousands of mothers will welcome the news with delight that Cod Liver Oil can now be taken in tablet form. Hydro-Cod in Tablet Form, the improved compound Cod Liver Oil tablet contains an abundance of this greatest of all known health and flesh builders. It's not the kind of Cod Liver Oil that kiddies despise and fight not to take, but it's just the extractives of cod fish livers—that part of the oil which really contains the millions of vitamines that build up and strengthen little weak, frail and thin bodies.

In addition to Cod Liver Oil, Hypo-Cod Tablets contain the combined hypophosphites of lime, soda and iron to purify the blood and increase strength and vigor; quinine, manganese and strychinine to aid the stomach, heart and nerves, besides the greatest of all blood enrichers, peptonate of iron. It's the very same formula which has been used for years in the celebrated Earle's Hypo-Cod in liquid form. Competent doctors agree that there is no better formula known to rebuild weak systems.

Give thin, frail, scrawny kiddies a fighting chance in life, and start them today on a bottle of Hypo-Cod Tablets.

Recommended in East Liverpool by Mathews Cut Rate, Economy Drug Store, Huff's Drug Store, Bulger's Pharmacy, Gamble's Drug Store and McCutcheon's Pharmacy in Chester, and other good druggists everywhere, who guarantee satisfaction or money back.

What to Take for SICK HEADACHE

Take a good dose of Carter's Little Liver Pills—then take 2 or 3 for a few nights after. A few doses restore your organs to their proper functions and the Headache and the causes of it pass away. In the same manner they regulate the Bowels and prevent Constipation.
